South Viets abandon 4th province

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam is abandoning a fourth province, Quang Tri, to the fast encroaching North Vietnamese and is considering giving up Thua Thien, which includes the old imperial capital of Hue, government officials disclosed today.

About 100,000 panicky civilians were reported fleeing southward toward Da Nang from the cities of Quang Tri and Hue. The area is on the northern coast below the demilitarized zone, where heavy fighting has been under way for two weeks.

Field reports from Hue said residents were urged to leave, but military units and male civil servants were ordered to remain on duty. Orders were sent to the government radio station in Hue to be prepared to destroy all equipment should the situation become critical.

The move follows the abandonment Monday of the three western provinces in the Central Highlands — Kontum, Pleiku and Barlac. The government said it could not hold those provinces, which cover 11,000 square miles and have more than half a million people, after North Vietnamese forces cut all overland supply routes.

Since the cease-fire agreement was signed more than two years ago, the Saigon government has lost or abandoned 24 of its 244 district capitals. Of the provinces, five out of 44 have fallen or been abandoned. District capitals are the equivalent of county seats, while provincial capitals are the equivalent of state capitals.

Western and Vietnamese analysts said the decision to pull out of Quang Tri was made for strategic reasons and approved by President Nguyen Van Thieu. North Vietnam reportedly has four infantry divisions and two antiaircraft divisions in the region, its 30,000 troops outnumbering South Vietnamese regulars two-to-one.

The North Vietnamese already control most of Quang Tri province except for the provincial capital by the same name. They seized the province during the 1972 Easter offensive, but South Vietnamese forces won back Quang Tri City four months later.

Virtually all of western Thua Thien is also controlled by the North Vietnamese or is a no-man's land. The only government controlled areas are mainly along the coastal strip of Highway 1.

Quang Tri province has a population of nearly 300,000, about one-fourth of it concentrated in the city. Thua Thien has 750,000 people, including 200,000 in Hue.

In explaining the strategy of withdrawal, one analyst said: "You have to look at your most secure defense perimeter. Where is the best defensive perimeter? You look at the territory and determine where you can best use your troops."

The current North Vietnamese offensive has consolidated their positions since they already controlled South Vietnam's northern border and most of the western borders with Laos and Cambodia.

But the abandonment of Quang Tri marks the first time the North Vietnamese have a major stronghold on the coastal strip of Highway 1, where most of the South Vietnamese strength lies.

Meanwhile, officials of the South Vietnamese ministry of social welfare said they expect as many as 450,000 refugees from the three Central Highlands provinces of Pleiku, Kontum and Darlac which the government is abandoning to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

With the main highways to the coast cut, the swarm fleeing from the highlands stretched out from Pleiku southward along Highway 7B, heading for the coastal city of Tuy Hoa.

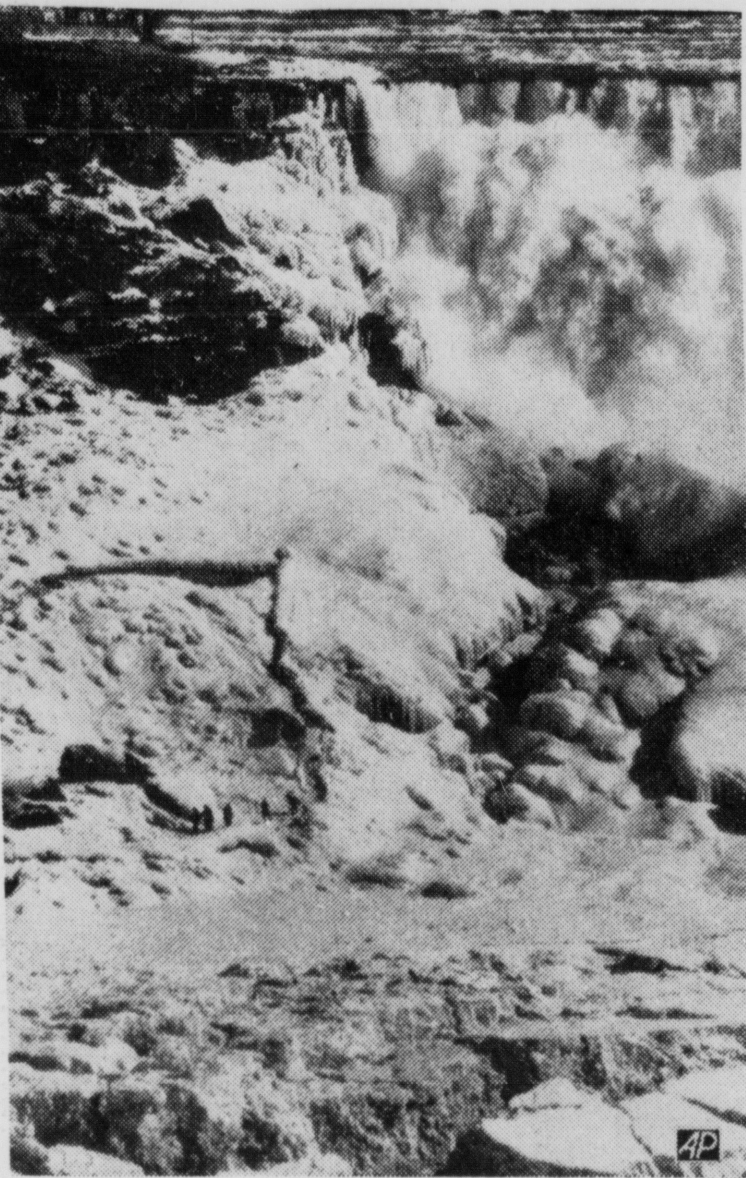

It appeared that most of them would not reach the safety of the coastal lowlands for three or four more days.

An exodus also was reported under way from Dalat, 140 miles northeast of Saigon in the lower central highlands. It is outside the three provinces the government is giving up, but its highway to Saigon has been cut by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong attacks on Dinh Quan, a district capital 75 miles northeast of Saigon.

The government reported more Communist attacks on Dinh Quan as well as on Hoai Duc and Gia Ray, two other district capitals south of Dinh Quan. The Saigon command said nearly 200 shells were fired into Hoai Duc.

In Cambodia, about 1,000 militant university students held a four-hour rally on their campus in Phnom Penh urging the U.S. Congress to cut off aid to the Cambodian government and demanding that President Long Nol resign.

Part of sunken Soviet sub is recovered by CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency last summer recovered part of a Soviet nuclear submarine that sank in the Pacific Ocean in 1968, administration and congressional officials said today.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said a congressional investigation into the wisdom of carrying out the highly classified salvage operation was likely, but he declined to provide details.

Other government officials said, however, the operation was designed to recover communication codes and atomic warhead missiles from the H-class sub which was lost in 1968.

Because about two-thirds of the submarine broke off and sank to the ocean bottom, neither the codes nor the missiles were recovered, officials said.

Senior members of Congress with responsibility for overseeing the CIA were briefed in advance of the operation carried out from a salvage ship built secretly for the job by Howard Hughes, the eccentric billionaire.

Mansfield said the sub was old and that its military value was not very significant but "what it contained might have been of some value." He did not elaborate.

Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., said published estimates placing the cost of the operation at $350 million "are greatly exaggerated."

Young, a member of the Senate CIA Oversight Committee, said, "There was a lot of important information gathered."

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the new special committee investigating the CIA, said his inquiry would incorporate the salvage operation.

"If we are willing to pay Howard Hughes $350 million for an obsolete 18-year-old Russian submarine no wonder we're broke," Church said.

Government sources said the portion of the sub successfully raised came from a depth of about three miles, about 750 miles northwest of Oahu, Hawaii.

It sank in 1968 following a series of explosions, they said. The bodies of about 70 Soviet officers and seamen were recovered in the operation.

There was no immediate White House reaction to the report.

The CIA refused to comment. But Mansfield said he felt sure that the episode would be investigated by a Senate subcommittee.

Earlier, the Los Angeles Times, the Washington Post and the New York Times carried accounts of the July 1974 operation in their editions today.

Social Security law is ruled unconstitutional

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that a federal law granting Social Security benefits to widows but not widowers is unconstitutional.

"It is no less important for a child to be cared for by its sole surviving parent when that parent is male rather than female," Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said for the court.

In a separate concurring opinion, Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. said that "when the mother is a principal wage earner, the family may suffer as great an economic deprivation upon her death as would occur upon the death of a father wage earner."

In another separate opinion, Justice William H. Rehnquist said it is "irrational to distinguish between mothers and fathers when the sole question is whether a child of a deceased contributing worker should have the opportunity to receive the full-time attention of the only parent remaining to it."

Although there was no dissent from the decision, Justice William O. Douglas did not participate since the court heard arguments on the case after he suffered a stroke on Dec. 31.

The government has estimated that in 1974 alone the cost of extending benefits to widowers and their children would have been $20 million.

The court held that Social Security benefits must be distributed according to classifications which do not differentiate on the basis of sex.

The government contended in arguments before the court that the distinction between widows and widowers was intended to provide an income to women who were unable to provide for themselves because of economic discrimination.

The court rejected this argument and said the purpose was to permit women to stay home and devote themselves to the care of children. The court said this purpose does not justify a sex-based distinction which it said diminishes the protection afforded to women who do work.

The court's decision upheld a ruling by three U.S. district judges in New Jersey in a case in which a man sought benefits after the death of his wife, who was a schoolteacher.

The man, Stephen C. Wiesenfeld, was told he was not entitled to benefits because they could be paid only to women.

The law provides Social Security benefits for widows with minor children in their care, based on their deceased husband's earnings, but does not provide similar benefits for widowers.

Throughout the Wiesenfelds' marriage, Mrs. Wiesenfeld's earnings as a teacher exceeded those of her husband, court records showed.

A Supreme Court decision issued Tuesday curbs the power of federal judges to act on complaints by individuals that their rights are being violated under state laws.

Dissenting justices said the decision "turns the clock back."

The 6-3 ruling Tuesday was a followup to a controversial ruling in 1971 that federal courts may not interfere, except in extraordinary circumstances, with criminal cases which are pending in state courts.

What the court has done now is to say that in some circumstances the same rule applies to civil proceedings.

The ruling on the power of federal judges came in the case of an Ohio theater which was padlocked by local authorities for a year as a "nuisance" for showing films found to be obscene.

The theater owner filed suit in U.S. District Court and obtained a ruling from a three-judge panel that use of the nuisance law for such a purpose was an unconstitutional restraint on freedom of expression.

In setting aside this ruling, the Supreme Court observed through Justice William H. Rehnquist that the theater owner should have been required to appeal the nuisance abatement in state courts.

Suit accuses six firms, four individuals of rigging bids

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A civil suit which charges six contracting firms and four individuals with conspiring to rig the bids on two state Capitol rehabilitation projects was filed today in U.S. District Court.

The suit was filed by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott and it seeks triple the amount of damages the state allegedly incurred by awarding contracts on a non-competitive basis.

The contracts in question were let in 1969 and 1970 by the Secretary of State's office under Paul Powell.

The suit contends the defendants bribed Powell in the hope he would overlook irregularities in the bidding procedure.

The six contracting firms are: Ralph Vancil, Inc., Cairo; Petersburg Plumbing & Heating Co., Petersburg; J.F. Weiskopf & Son, Inc., Springfield; Buecker Plumbing, Heating & Air Conditioning Co., Springfield; Walter Slocombe Plumbing & Heating Co., Springfield and Inskip Plumbing, Heating and Air Conditioning Co., Champaign.

Individuals named as defendants are Milo Vogt of the Petersburg firm; Harold W. Buecker of the Buecker firm; Ralph Vancil of the Vancil firm and James H. White, Powell's chief purchaser.

Scott said the amount of damages suffered by the state because of the bidding irregularities has not been determined, but he said it may run as high as several hundred thousand dollars.

The suit said the defendants conspired between 1968 and 1972 to "suppress and eliminate competition in the furnishing of mechanical contracting services and supplies to the State of Illinois in connection with rehabilitation of the state Capitol Building."

Vancil and Vogt were indicted by a federal grand jury a year ago for mail fraud and criminal conspiracy in connection with the contracts. Vancil has pleaded guilty to conspiracy and mail fraud, and a trial for Vogt has been set to begin in June.

McGown had done the actual parking. City law "apparently contemplates that whoever parks the vehicle shall deposit money in the meter," Reno wrote.

"The judge is dead wrong," said Fuhr, who has filed for a rehearing in the case. Fuhr said if necessary the city would probably appeal.

One concern is the countless outstanding tickets already issued. The city has 40 or 50 suits on file against persons who have 10 or more parking tickets, Fuhr said.

"Who knows how many people are under 10 and how many unpaid tickets are floating around," he said. "We've got boxes of the things."

Reno declined comment because of the motion for a re-hearing, but Fuhr said he sees no reason why anyone would drop a coin in a Pontiac parking meter any more.

He said that proving who parked the car is "a physical impossibility unless you have a policeman stand in front of every meter."

"This is one of those things that gets to be a nightmare," he said.

Judge's ruling leaves town powerless on parking fines

PONTIAC (AP)— The driver who forgets to put money in the parking meter doesn't have to worry about a ticket here.

A judge has ruled it's not enough for city officials to prove who owns the car, they've got to prove who parked it. And the officials are livid.

"Why would anybody bother to pay a ticket," said William Fuhr, city attorney. "I mean, there isn't any way in God's green earth I can prove who parked the car. That's ridiculous."

Fuhr says the ruling also threatens a planned $450,000 city revenue bond issue, to be paid back by proceeds from parking meters.

"That's why we're a little hostile, to put it mildly," said Fuhr. "Why would anyone even buy one of these bonds when we've got no way of enforcing our parking revenue?"

The ruling was issued earlier this month by Darrell H. Reno, associate circuit judge. It came in the case of a Pontiac resident charged with failing to pay 17 parking tickets, the city clerk said.

Reno found the resident, Autto G. Mc-

Gown, innocent. He said the city didn't prove that McGown had done the actual parking.

City law "apparently contemplates that whoever parks the vehicle shall deposit money in the meter," Reno wrote.

"The judge is dead wrong," said Fuhr, who has filed for a rehearing in the case. Fuhr said if necessary the city would probably appeal.

One concern is the countless outstanding tickets already issued. The city has 40 or 50 suits on file against persons who have 10 or more parking tickets, Fuhr said.

Attorney General rules

Township supervisors on county boards in conflict

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott has ruled township supervisors cannot be elected to the county board without being considered to have vacated their township posts. The ruling also holds any member of the county board cannot be elected township supervisor without vacating his county seat.

Lee County Board Chairman Irvin Koch, District 2, is affected by the ruling since he was re-elected to the board Nov. 5 while being supervisor of Viola Township.

Koch today said he will resign as township supervisor if State's Atty. Patrick Ward agrees with the Scott ruling.

Ward today said he will probably not give any opinion for about three weeks.

He said the Scott ruling, which reversed one issued five years ago, is based on the Intergovernmental Cooperative Act which permits counties and townships to enter into joint contracts.

Ward said an example of the cooperative contract is when the county and a township both agree to share the cost of construction of a bridge in the township.

The state's attorney, said he has not read the opinion thoroughly but he believes it is based on a technical conflict of interest. "There is no way anybody is going to be able to get any unwarranted gain because of the cooperative contract," speculated Ward.

Two other Lee board members elected Nov. 5 at that time were township supervisors. They are Blaine Allen, District 2, Reynolds Township, and Ernest G. Norden, District 1, Hamilton Township.

Allen is chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee and Norden is acting chairman of the Finance Committee and a member of the Health and Welfare Committee and the Executive Committee.

Koch has been a member of the board for 25 years, Allen for 12 years and Norden for 10 years.

Other members of the Lee board who are also township supervisors are: Charles Dunphy, Marion; Merle Topper, South Dixon; Fred V. Kesselring, China; Arthur O. Erickson, Willow Creek, and Robert Burrs, Dixon.

The Ogle County Board Chairman and four other members are now affected by the ruling and four other members are township supervisors.

On Nov. 5, Charles Finch, Mt. Morris, board chairman, was re-elected to the board and is supervisor of Mt. Morris Township. The other four are: Freddie Canode, Marion, District 1; Clinton Ortiesen, Woosung, District 3; Everett Rader, White Rock, District 1, and Fred Folkers, Eagle Point, District 3.

Other board members who are township supervisors are: Clarence Hoffman, Lynnville, District 1; Wayne Ehmen, Monroe, District 1; Dale Vogeler, Flagg, District 2, and Richard Whitney, Pine Rock, District 1.

Livingstone's heart lost to Africa

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

On March 19, 1813, David Livingstone was born in Blantyre, Scotland. On Nov. 27, 1840, age 27, he was ordained a Presbyterian missionary. Livingstone regarded missionaries as candles burning in the darkness that surrounds the heathens. God and Africa were in him. Then he developed from the missionary into the explorer and to the day of his death at 60 in the Dark Continent, he built there an astounding career as a dedicated Christian, courageous explorer and fervent champion against slavery.

In the day of our antiheroes, honor the brave!

Africa is a large order. It is 5,000 miles long and as much as 4,600 miles wide (11 million square miles) and half again the size of the North American continent from the Arctic Ocean to Panama. It could cover all of the United States, India, China and 10 Japans.

Some years ago I wrote the section on Africa in "The Book of Knowledge" for children. I spent some time in the Sudan, south of Egypt. The Sudan alone is larger than Alaska, Texas and New Mexico combined.

The Nile, nearly 3,500 miles long, rises in June and reaches its peak in August. Egyptians commonly call it El-Dahr—"the sea." In the Sudan the great river creates the Sudd region. During the wet season this is probably the world's most desolate and dangerous swamp. It covers an area larger than England.

In addition to every temperature and climate, this naturally richest of all continents has more of nearly everything than any place on earth.

Livingstone journeyed southeast Africa for eight years as a missionary. Then he made, additionally, three tremendous explorations.

His Zambezi expedition took six years. His Luanda-Quelimane expedition took another six. And along with Henry Morton Stanley's voyage in the "Lady Alice" down the Luabala and the Congo to the Atlantic, this remains one of the greatest exploration epics of all time. (Stanley lost 69 men through disease, 14 by drowning, 58 through battle and murder, eight who starved to death and 13 listed as missing in the four-month voyage.)

Julius Caesar yearned to discover the mysterious source of the Nile. He tried; he couldn't do it. Caesar was guided far up the Nile to Aswan—the site of today's famous High Dam—by a young Egyptian noble. Aswan became the Roman Empire's southernmost outpost. There Caesar turned back, and in February 1866 Livingstone, who by then held the status of British Consul General at large, set out on the same source quest.

The brave Scotsman was never at his best while traveling with other white men, but incomparable among natives. This time he took only Africans and Asiatics. Nevertheless, trouble erupted and Livingstone, prematurely aged from hardships, saw many desert him. Nor did he discover the Nile's source.

Men like Raleigh, Cook, Cabot or Livingstone probably never would have been happy while there remained a horizon to draw them. And although Livingstone did not convert the African natives, Africa converted him.

He was lost to it as an addict is lost; compelled to suffer intolerable anguish but unable to relinquish the drug.

In any case, Livingstone was the first European to cross Africa at its great, most hazardous central area and map the infested drainage morass of the Zambezi River and vast Lake Nyassa.

The New York Herald's Stanley discovered the long-missing explorer (Nov. 10, 1871) on the banks of Lake Tanganyika at Ujiji and greeted him with the famous words: "Dr. Livingstone, I presume." And although the frail, emaciated man accompanied Stanley on two expeditions, he refused to leave Africa.

Livingstone died May 1, 1873 in the village of Chitambo in the Ilala district of what is now Zambia. Two of his blacks named Susi and Chama found him in death. He was kneeling in prayer across his bed.

Susi and Chama buried Livingstone's heart under a great tree. Then a horrendous journey that took nine months the villagers carried his body to the coast for what they knew would be a proper burial for a hero.

David Livingstone was buried in Westminster Abbey on April 18, 1874, with all the pomp and ceremony that the British Empire could muster.

Take it from Here

REFLECTIONS—In this column on Tuesday, we noted if Johnson and Massac Counties paid property taxes on the basis which taxpayers in this area do, their taxes would go up 177 per cent.

Word comes of the woes of Pope County, which borders both Johnson and Massac Counties.

These counties are in deep southern Illinois. The Ohio River flows along about two-thirds of the eastern border of Pope County.

Pope County taxpayers have had their property assessed at a much higher percentage compared to the real value than in the neighboring counties. Property in Pope County is assessed at 67 per cent of actual cash value, after the multiplier is applied.

This is compared to a low of 22 per cent in its neighbors' areas, to a high of 103 per cent in Lee County which is one of the highest in the state.

Pope County's problem is money. According to County Board Chairman J. E. Taylor, the county receives about $87,000 each year and says it costs almost $100,000 to operate the county government.

In 1972, the county's assessed valuation was $8,745,000 and the property taxes collected amounted to $75,644. Other revenues were $1,080 from sales tax returned, $24,000 from state income tax sharing, which total just more than $100,000.

The acute financial problem now is caused by economic conditions which have reduced county revenues.

Pope County has 381 square miles and has a population of about 4,000.

The county clerk, Milton Baker, says the county's financial plight began in the 1930s when the federal government began acquiring land for the Shawnee National Forest.

Now, it is estimated the government owns 38 per cent of the land in Pope County.

The county government gets only about 17 cents per acre for the land included in the national forest.

Lee County is about twice as large in area as Pope County with 729 square miles and property taxes here produce a little more than $1 million each year.

By standards in Pope County,

Lee County has no problems.

The Illinois House Executive Committee has approved creating a commission to recommend salary pay for members of the General Assembly on an annual basis.

Robert E. Brinkmeier, D-Freeport, was sponsor of the legislation which was approved by the committee.

Brinkmeier said legislators have no way to know whether the commission will recommend a raise for lawmakers or come back calling for a decrease in pay.

A similar proposal was defeated last year because it provided the General Assembly members could accept the commission's recommendation without a formal floor vote.

The bill submitted by Brinkmeier requires such a vote. However, it does not require the legislative members to accept the recommendations.

Last year members of the legislature voted themselves a $2,500 salary increase.

Stop debating and rebate

By DON OAKLEY

While Washington fiddles, the recession burns on.

One of the least productive arguments currently going on between Congress and the administration is who should get the bulk of the income tax rebate and/or tax cut everyone agrees is needed to pump new life into the economy.

Weeks ago President Ford proposed a $12 billion rebate on 1974 taxes for individuals, with a maximum of $1,000 per return. The higher the tax paid, the higher the rebate. This has been much criticized because some 40 per cent of the rebate would go to families making more than $20,000 a year.

The House has passed its own $21.3-billion version of a rebate-tax cut, with most of it flowing to lower-income groups that have been hardest hit by inflation and recession. The Senate is expected to up this figure.

Rebates under the House bill would generally be about 10 per cent, but with a maximum of $200 per return and a minimum of $100 or a total refund of all taxes paid, whichever is less.

This in turn has been criticized by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon on the ground that lower-income families would not spend the money where it would do the most good to help revive the economy.

Higher-income families, says Simon, are more likely to spend their windfall on such major items as cars, houses and home appliances, whereas lower-income families will use it for such basic necessities as food, rent, etc.

Nobody really knows for sure, however.

For instance, a survey conducted early in March by the Credit Union National Assn. found that of 2,613 credit union members in 44 states who participated in the survey (and who presumably cut across several income tax brackets), only 15 per cent indicated they would spend the entire rebate on new purchases. Existing debts would be paid off by 30 per cent and 27 per cent planned to put it all into savings. Another 26 per cent said they would save some and spend some.

It is questionable whether it really matters what people would do with their 1974 tax rebates and the extra income they will have by virtue of a tax cut for 1975.

If some spend it on day-to-day living expenses, this would at least put the money into immediate circulation and would help such sectors of the economy as the food and clothing businesses.

If others used it primarily to pay off debts, this would swell the amount of funds in the hands of lenders to be made available for others wanting to borrow so that they can buy things like cars and refrigerators.

If still others banked all or part of it, this too would increase the supply of lending capital, which is desperately needed in the depressed housing industry.

Only if Americans planned to hide the money in a cookie jar or under the floor or just sit and admire it, would it be cause for concern—and that, we can be sure, few people in any income bracket are going to do.

Rather than worrying about who will spend how much how soon and on what, we should determine what would be the fairest possible disbursement, and then start getting this money to the people without further delay.

Voice of the people

To the Editor:

Parents of pre-school aged children are urged to take advantage of the free Amblyopia and Hearing Screening being sponsored by the Dixon Jay-Cettes. The screening is being held April 7, 8, 9, from 9 to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. at St. Paul Lutheran Church.

The Jay-Cettes, under the supervision of the Illinois Department of Public Health, have sponsored this screening over the past years as a public service for the youth of our community. The tests provided for the pre-schoolers are designed to simply and effectively identify those youngsters who may have some hearing or vision impairment. The advantage of this screening is that it is geared for children at an age where positive and fruitful steps can be taken to correct any problems that may be present.

Amblyopia is a loss of normal visual acuity in one eye without any apparent disease or pathology. More often, amblyopia develops due to the disuse of the affected eye because of some functional problem, such as turning of the eyes; or, some refractory problem, such as farsightedness or astigmatism. In many cases, a complete visual examination followed by the proper glasses or visual therapy can reverse or impede the further progression of poor vision.

It is commonly known that the earlier treatment is started, the better the outcome will be. However, to initiate treatment on a vision problem, the problem must be discovered and identified. The members of the Northern Illinois Optometric Society commend the Jay-Cettes on a most worthwhile project. Screenings such as these can make the difference between a child who will have extreme difficulty with the normal visual tasks involved in schooling, and one who progresses through the grades easily and efficiently.

The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Some one recently told me that everytime a person takes an aspirin his stomach bleeds. I have read that aspirin can cause internal bleeding in a person with ulcers, but this is the first time that I have heard that it causes bleeding in a healthy person. Would you please give me your opinion?

DEAR READER — Aspirin is a remarkably effective medicine and considering its wide usage it is remarkable that it causes no more problems than it does.

If aspirin is allowed to settle against the body tissues for a long time it will produce a tissue burn. I don't advise this, but for the doubter a simple experiment of tucking an aspirin between the teeth and the cheek tissues will produce a tissue chemical burn.

In an acid stomach the crystals of aspirin can deposit against the lining and cause a small tissue burn. Because the stomach is rich with small blood vessels a small bleeding point can occur.

To avoid this problem one should take aspirin with or after food or milk. Diluting the aspirin and neutralizing the acid in the stomach helps solve this problem.

Some complain that this delays the action of the aspirin, and it does, but it also prolongs its effects.

Aside from this drawback, aspirin, in large amounts, also retards the clotting mechanism and this can be a significant factor in causing bleeding, not just from the stomach. This can complicate the use of anti-clotting medicines commonly used after heart attacks, strokes and other clotting problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In your column about bee stings you said that bees won't sting someone who wears white. My husband was wearing white and no shaving lotion, but still got stung.

He has been taking shots for his allergy to them, but he was getting a reaction so they have stopped them for a month. What could happen if he gets stung again, since he is so allergic?

DEAR READER — I am always interested in what people think I wrote. I did not say that bees wouldn't sting you if you wear white. What my column really said, and I read it again, is that bees and wasps are attracted to bright floral prints and black clothes and not attracted to light colors such as white, khaki or green colors. In short, if you wear the right colors you are LESS likely to attract bees than you would be wearing the other colors mentioned.

Your husband is less likely to have a problem with a bee sting for a while after he has had the desensitizing treatment. He may need more treatment later, and he should be checked by his doctor for this problem each year and check on the advisability of more shots to keep him desensitized to bee stings. There are some new purified substances that may be helpful with less side effects.

You should have one of the emergency kits on hand that I mentioned in my first column. If you will follow the measures I suggested originally, the desensitizing shots, keeping shrubs and nests down, and taking care to wear light-colored clothing and avoid perfumes or shaving lotion, you will have done most of the things you can do to avoid the stingers.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, March 19, the 78th day of 1975. There are 287 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
In 1920, the U.S. Senate rejected the Versailles Treaty providing for a League of Nations. The action set the tone for a decade of U.S. isolationist policy.

On this date—
In 1628, the English founded the Massachusetts Colony.

In 1808, King Charles IV of Spain abdicated.

In 1913, the first territorial legislature of Alaska granted suffrage to women.

In 1942, during World War II, American men between the ages of 45 and 64 were ordered to register for nonmilitary duty.

In 1962, relative calm returned to Algeria after a cease-fire ended seven years of warfare between the French and Algerian nationalists.

Five years ago: The United States announced that its recognition of Cambodia was not affected by a coup that ousted the chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Congress zeroing in on Federal Reserve Board

WASHINGTON (LENS)—The Federal Reserve Board, guardian of the nation's money and for over 50 years independent of both Congress and the White House, has become Washington's latest whipping boy.

Despite being called to testify before the new Congress six times already in its short life, Arthur Burns, chairman of the Fed, has held his ground: control of the money supply and, indirectly, of interest rates is a responsibility far too important to the national economy to be

But most people are now suggesting that it is too important to be left to the Federal Reserve. Academics (including both the monetarist Professor Milton Friedman and the Keynesian Professor Paul Samuelson) have joined in an unlikely chorus with labor leader George Meany, editorial writers, both chambers of Congress and, more discreetly, even the White House, in laying much of the blame for the severity of the current recession on the Federal Reserve.

The fundamental criticism is that throughout 1972 (Richard Nixon's election year) the Fed expanded the money supply excessively fast, overheating the economy and landing it with unnecessary inflation in 1973, while during the last six months, in an effort to compensate for its previous error, it has restricted the growth of the money supply and thus accelerated the advent and increased the depth of the recession.

The same criticism can be levelled against almost every central bank in the world during this period. The truth is that the spurt in world money supply after mid-1971 was politically motivated. Politicians wanted to get out of recession, and central banks surrendered too supinely to them.

As inflation grew, central banks did not increase money supply by as much as was required to keep business in full employment. But now we are at the period when politicians are frightened of unemployment.

The Fed's defense is, aptly, that it is exactly the clamor that is now being raised against it that most justified its continued aloofness. But Burns is known to be as unhappy as his critics about the Fed's seeming inability to spur the economy.

Although interest rates have halved in the last six months, demand for money, far from picking up, has dropped dramatically. Burns argues that there is plenty of money about but, because there is no clear political lead either from Congress or the White House, nobody has the confidence to take up the slack with new investment.

In New York alone bank loans to business have fallen $2.9 billion since the start of the year. Neither lower interest rates nor an increased money supply will by themselves tempt industry to borrow funds that it does not need. Indeed a rapid expansion of the money supply now would only undermine confidence further, raising, as it would, the spectre of accelerating inflation later this year just when it finally looks as if inflation may be curbed.

Lower interest rates likewise provide no certain answer: They might only sink the dollar still lower on the international exchanges where it is already artificially depressed. Thus runs Burns's defense barbed always with the implication that there is a limit to what monetary management can do, and if monetary managers try to do the job that ought to be done by fiscal measures, they will cause more harm than good.

But Congress, scenting blood, is not going to forego this opportunity of bringing the Federal Reserve to heel. Last week the House of Representatives passed a resolution sponsored by Rep. Henry Reuss, the new chairman of the Banking committee, that, if adopted by the Senate, would direct the Fed to "conduct monetary policy in the first half of 1975 so as to lower long-term interest rates, and thus do its part in promptly and steadily reducing unemployment." Such a resolution is not enforceable as a law would be.

S. Viet strategy changing

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military officials say the South Vietnamese command appears to be fundamentally changing strategy to concentrate on defending the most populous and productive sections of the country.

This is the way they view South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu's decision to give up three thinly populated provinces in the central highlands.

"Thieu is taking a gamble," said one official. "But he apparently feels a need to put himself in a more defensible position."

Meanwhile, Pentagon sources said they understand Thieu is preparing to recall his paratrooper division back to the Saigon area from the northern region of South Vietnam.

These sources said Thieu evidently wants that division as a strategic reserve, close at hand and ready to be put where needed.

U.S. military men doubt Thieu is worried that Saigon itself is in danger. But they said the North Vietnamese are expected to strike hard in the provinces around Saigon and possibly in the delta to the south. This is where most of South Vietnam's 20 million people live and where most of its rice is grown.

Pentagon officials obviously were unhappy at the virtual surrender of Pleiku, Kontum and Darlac provinces to the North Vietnamese.

They were not entirely taken by surprise because it became evident last week that the South Vietnamese positions in the highlands were becoming precarious because the North Vietnamese had severed key supply and reinforcement routes.

Some officials conceded they are trying to view the development in as hopeful a light as possible.

They estimated that, counting the three provinces, the North Vietnamese will control only about 4 to 6 per cent of the South Vietnamese population.

"Thieu is giving up real estate, but the highlands are not very important compared with other regions," a senior official said.

He acknowledged, however, that the North Vietnamese seizure of Pleiku, Kontum and Darlac provinces raised the danger that North Vietnamese troops may cut South Vietnam in half, a Communist objective for many years.

Regardless of the strictly military factors involved in Thieu's decisions, Pentagon officials are concerned about the possible impact on the morale of South Vietnam's civilian population and its fighting forces, including those under strong Communist pressure in the northern part of the country far from Saigon.

but Reuss's calculation is that the Fed would have to respect it.

However, the Senate Banking Committee is working on its own resolution which could be difficult to reconcile with that of the House. It is a purely monetarist approach requiring faster growth in the money supply, and that long-run money growth be kept in line with the economy's potential to increase production.

Perhaps, most importantly, it demands that the Fed should report to Congress on its monetary plans twice a year.

It is this last requirement that is most likely to survive any compromise between the House and the Senate. For the Fed the message is clear, the years of autonomy are over. The powers that Congress gave the Fed in 1914 to look after matters that were then considered too complicated for politicians to handle, it now wants to take back.

Congress feels that it should have an important say in the Fed's key economic tool: the buying and selling of government securities in the open market.

Congress is now preparing a tax cut of over $21 billion with the expressed intention of boosting the economy by increasing the money supply, but since government securities worth $38 billion will need to be sold in the next four months to finance the government, these tax cuts might not increase the money supply at all, unless the Fed chips in and purchases some of the government securities itself thus freeing money to be used in industry or consumer spending.

If the Fed were subjected to a regular investigation by Congress, then Washington's politicians would feel that they had a closer check on whether their fiscal policies had the desired monetary effects. And that is what they are after.

Willingham says work satisfying

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Books Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—Calder Willingham wrote his first novel when he was 22, recently published his ninth at 52, and currently is working on his 10th. He also has turned out a book of short stories and a batch of screenplays over the years. It's no surprise to find he loves to write, calls it "a marvelous experience, very satisfying," but also is quick to observe that it's "pretty hard work as you get older—a novel can be a very exhausting thing."

Especially if, as Willingham does, a writer "works obsessively, writing on and on and just stopping to sleep. In a burst of work I'll lose anywhere from 8 to 16 pounds because I don't eat when I'm writing. I live on coffee and cigarettes. It's almost like a madness that comes upon you. But then there's the great satisfaction, the time when I have reached a point where I can read my stuff and say 'that's not bad.'"

Willingham, who lives in a small New Hampshire village—he'd rather not give its name because "I get funny letters sometimes"—with his wife and five children, doesn't care to discuss his novel-in-progress, because, "as Hemingway says, 'The book you talk about, you never write.'"

However, his latest novel, "The Big Nickel," he will talk about, observing that "it's about success and what it can do to you. Success can be a dangerous thing, a terrible problem. For a lot of writers, having a great success in early youth can make it very difficult to go on."

"The Big Nickel" deals with a writer whose first novel has scored big and now is having difficulty getting on to a second book.

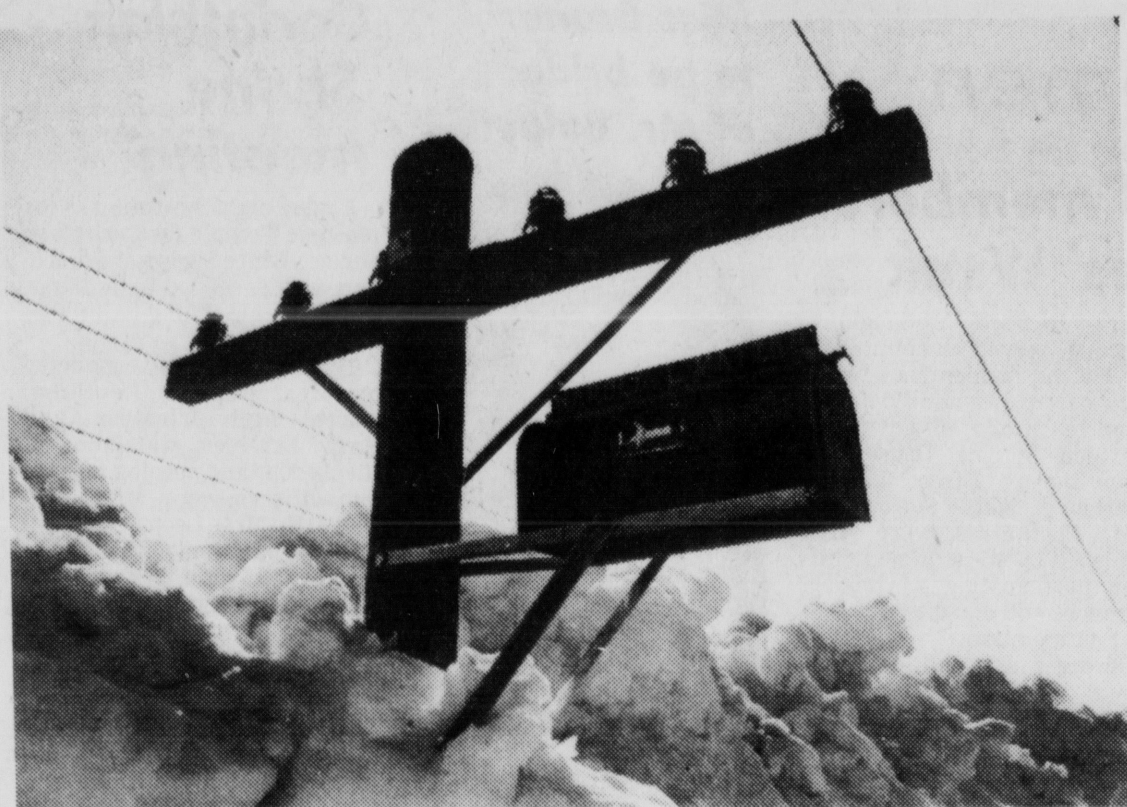

"I had a successful first book, 'End as a Man' (for which he wrote the screenplay), and it was difficult for me to get on and write my second book, 'Geraldine Bradshaw.' For a writer to convey what he feels to other people is terribly hard to do. So you've got to decide to do what you think you ought to do and not what others think you ought to do. You can't write like that."

The red-haired Willingham, wearing a tweed suit he finds just right for New Hampshire but too heavy for New York, probably is best known for his first book and for "Eternal Fire."

"Eternal Fire" is my best novel," he says in a southern accent that hints at his Georgia boyhood although "I haven't lived there since I was a child. If I have a masterwork that's it. I worked three years on it, and that's a lot of work. It sold over a million copies in paperback and it made it possible for me to get good money for my books. It made it possible for me to make a basic living as a novelist."

"Before it, my books didn't make enough money for me to support my family and I wrote screenplays for money. I still do screenplays but now it's for relaxation because you can't work on a novel all the time. In a novel you strain your soul."

(His movie credits include "Paths of Glory," "The Graduate" and "Little Big Man.") "Movie writing is fun," he concludes, "but your work is shaped and altered by others. With a novel you are the boss. My novels are not perfect, that's not humanly possible, but with them I was free to do what I wanted to do and that's what I like."

SNOW JOB isn't a matter of raising the mailbox but of lowering the pole. Farmer Harold Matzke of Monroe, Mich., cut an old telephone pole down to size to get a startling effect on an otherwise routine winter day.

Amputee fights for rights

OAK LAWN, Ill. (AP) — A Vietnam amputee who won a court battle to get on the Oak Lawn police force is now fighting to get full benefits and promotion opportunities.

Jim Zieler, a former marine, says officials in this suburb southwest of Chicago are discriminating against him because he wears an artificial foot.

"I don't have full status as a policeman," said the 31-year-old father of four children. "They won't put me on the pension fund or the promotion list. I take a chance everytime I put on my uniform and go out on the street. If I got shot in line of duty and couldn't work again all I would get would be six months of unemployment compensation, not disability payments for life like other police in the pension plan. Where does that leave my family?"

"I don't know why officials are so unbending," he said. "I think it boils down to politics. They hold it against me that I got on the force by going to court."

Although the rules said amputees could not be policemen, Zieler nine years ago took the tests anyway. Records show he led his group in agility tests that included calisthenics, running and jumping.

"They pacified me by letting me take the tests, thinking I wouldn't pass," said Zieler. "Then they gave me the run around. A court ruled they had to put me on the force. When I couldn't get in the pension fund and was scratched off the promotion list, I again went to court charging discrimination and violation of the first court order."

He won that one, too, but an appellate court reversed the decision because Zieler had waited longer than the legal limit to file his complaints. The appeal decision was handed down in October 1974.

"I've spent about $9,500 in legal fees since this thing started and now I'm going to federal court," said Zieler.

His lawyer, Fred Shandling, said, "We'll file in about two weeks. Zieler is being discriminated against because they think he is physically handicapped. But his record as an officer is excellent. I can't think of a better candidate in a discrimination case. We will sue the Police and Fire Commission, the village Board of Trustees and the village itself."

Fred Dumke, Oak Lawn mayor, said, "I originally was opposed to hiring Zieler but he has made a fine policeman. He has proven his capabilities and should be eligible for some kind of pension rights. But the police pension board has power under state law in determining its participants."

Kissinger makes Egypt-Israeli shuttle trips

ASWAN, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger hopes to speed up negotiations between Israel and Egypt by making daily shuttle flights between the two countries for the rest of the week, U.S. officials say.

They told newsmen on Tuesday's flight from Jerusalem to Aswan that the negotiations are moving "a shade slower" than Kissinger expected at the start of his mission, now in its 13th day.

The secretary of state declined to predict how long his current peace shuttle will last. At the start of his mission he estimated about two weeks, but a senior U.S. official said three weeks or more might be needed to produce a new agreement under which Israel would make a further withdrawal in the Sinai Desert.

Public statements from both Egypt and Israel show no movement toward a compromise on the major issues. Egypt still says the declaration of nonbelligerency demanded by Israel can only be given as part of a final Arab-Israeli peace settlement. And the Israeli cabinet on Sunday ruled out inclusion of the Mitla and Gidi passes and the Abu Rudeis oil fields from the territory from which Israel is willing to withdraw next.

U.S. officials in Kissinger's party denied that Israel's position has hardened. They said Premier Yitzhak Rabin and his associates are more flexible in private than they are in public. They added that there is "some posturing going on" in both countries.

CBS newsmen Marvin Kalb reported that Israel has proposed a nine-point nonbelligerency plan to demonstrate the two governments' peaceful intentions toward each other. Kalb said the plan includes direct foreign shipping and air traffic between the two countries and a relaxation in Egypt of the Arab boycott against foreign companies dealing with Egypt.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
South isn't too happy with his six-spade contract. He has all sorts of ways to play the hand. The way the cards lie all reasonable plays will work.

When South played the hand, he ruffed the second diamond, played ace-king and another club which he ruffed in dummy. The normal play after that start is to come to his hand with a high trump and lead his last club. West's best play will be to chuck his jack of diamonds, but this won't faze South. He will ruff that last club, cash dummy's queen of trumps, come to his hand with the ace of hearts; draw West's last trump and eventually take the heart finesse.

The hand was played in a rubber bridge game, when Terence Reese was still an Oxford undergraduate. Terence sat East. Like many experts Terence felt that he held very bad cards. He certainly did this time.

West started out as above, but when he ruffed the third club Reese played the queen, not the nine.

South, already ruffed in dummy, cashed dummy's queen of trumps and led a low trump to his own hand. Then South saw a way to avoid the heart finesse. Obviously West held the last club and East had shown out of trumps. It would be perfectly safe to discard one of dummy's hearts on the 10 of clubs. South led it and West set the hand with his jack of spades. 19 (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Anniversary reception

FRANKLIN GROVE — Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Hatch will observe their 55th wedding anniversary March 25, and the event will be celebrated at a reception planned for 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday in the fellowship hall of the Church of the Brethren.

Hosting the reception will be the honorees' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Group, Franklin Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Hatch were married March 25, 1920 in Morrison, and they had two children, Mrs. Russell (June) Group, Franklin Grove, and a son, John, deceased. They also have four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. Hatch was a barber in Franklin Grove for more than 40 years, and Mrs. Hatch was employed 35 years as a telephone operator for the Farmers' Telephone Company.

Relatives and friends of the honored couple are invited to attend the anniversary reception, and it is requested that gifts be omitted.

INA District 13 members observe Nurses' Week

Nurses of the 13th District, INA, observed the 16th annual Nurses' Week in Illinois by sponsoring a dinner and fashion show March 13 in the Skyline Restaurant and Lounge.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Michael Fleming, Dixon, 13th District president and chairman of Nurses' Week activities, and she introduced three 80-year-old nurses, Miss Eunice Deter, Morrison, who graduated in 1918 from the nursing school at Englewood Hospital, Chicago; Mrs. Marie Crow, Morrison, a 1918 graduate of Agatha Hospital, Clinton, Iowa, now the Jane Lamb Hospital, and Edna Zarger Holly, Dixon, a 1917 graduate of the former KSB Hospital School of Nursing.

The dinner invocation was given by Mrs. Elsie Stultz, Franklin Grove, and entertainment was provided by "The Music Makers."

Meeting and program for St. Agnes Guild

St. Luke's Episcopal Church St. Agnes Guild met Friday in the church Eells Room when the vice president, Mrs. Gene Harvey, presided.

An opening prayer was followed by a program presented by Mr. and Mrs. George Covert Jr., who showed slides of scenes in Australia. They returned to the United States recently after teaching one year in the Ararat High School, Ararat, Victoria.

Attending as guests were Mrs. George Covert Sr., Mrs. J. L. Stinson and Mrs. Virgil Carpenter, and Mrs. John Batchelder presided at the table arranged for a tea by the co-hostesses, Mrs. James Angell and Mrs. E. E. Taylor.

Teens learn consumer information

KATHY AUGUSTINE
Lee Co. Extension Adviser
Today's youth spend about five per cent of the national personal income. Since teenagers are making important consumer education decisions, they need more information to help them make these decisions wisely. Almost every 4-H project has a consumer education dimension.

Through project work, 4-H youth learn how to analyze their needs, manage money, do comparative shopping, and purchase clothing, food, furnishings, and equipment. Several projects are specifically designed to help prepare youth to be wise consumers. One of the most popular is "You Buy Clothing."

Through this project, both boys and girls learn:

- to analyze their wardrobe needs to determine what garments are to be purchased and for what occasion;
- to understand the meaning of apparel terms;
- to understand the characteristics of fabrics and how to care for their clothes;
- to plan a clothing budget;
- to understand and evaluate clothing advertisements, and to evaluate purchases made.

4-H young people also learn to make decisions about paying for their purchases by evaluating the credit options available to them.

Two other popular consumer projects are the "Five-Year Room Plan Project" and "Money Management for Teens."

Through 4-H, young people gain skills and concepts that are required for every-day living. Many 4-H projects provide guidelines to help youth make wise consumer selections.

Corsage Workshop
On March 27th all interested youth 10 to 19 years old are invited to attend a workshop where they will learn how to make a corsage of fresh flowers. These corsages can then be given to mothers, grandmothers, aunts, or another favorite girl for Easter.

Two separate workshops have been scheduled. The morning workshop will be held from 10 to 11:30 a.m. in the Village Room of the Sublette State Bank. The afternoon workshop will be held in Loveland Community House, Dixon, from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Those planning to attend are asked to bring $1 to help cover costs of flowers, ribbon and other supplies they will be using.

All youth in the Dixon and Sublette communities are welcome to participate in these special programs. Preregistration is not necessary. Additional information is available from the Lee County Cooperative Extension Service Office in Amboy, or phone 857-3525.

Miss Bruner to be bride of Mr. Balayti

MISS BONNIE BRUNER

AMBOY — Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gray, Rt. 2, are announcing the coming marriage of their daughter, Miss Bonnie Bruner, to Rick Balayti, son of George Balayti, Rt. 1, Dixon.

The bride-elect graduated in 1973 from Franklin Center High School, Franklin Grove, and her fiancé, who recently completed two years in the Navy, is presently employed by Central Telephone Company, Dixon.

Their wedding is planned for 5 p.m. April 5 in the Presbyterian Church, Franklin Grove.

Corinthian Shrine meeting

Friday night's meeting in the Masonic Temple for Corinthian Shrine, White Shrine of Jerusalem, was preceded by a dinner in the temple dining hall for 31 members.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Bernice Lepthien, worthy high priestess, and Harry Lepthien, watchman of shepherds, and serving as protocol officers were Mrs. Jean DeWerrf, Mrs. Leona Spencer, Miss Dorothy Long, Mrs. Frances Swarts, Otis Tanner, and Mrs. Lois Myers.

Introductions

Supreme Shrine members introduced were Mrs. Margaret Tanner, district deputy; Mrs. Florence Bastian, district material objective chairman, and Mrs. Eleanor Smith, a member of the special obituary committee. Also introduced were 14 past worthy high priestesses and watchmen of shepherds.

A communication was read from the supreme worthy high priestess Mrs. Leona Graves, concerning the 81st session to be held May 3-9 in Denver, Colo. A contribution to the building fund was made by members in memory of the late Oscar Lindquist, and a memorial service was conducted for the late Mrs. Anna Moats. Annual reports were given by the worthy high priestess and the scribe.

Elected as new officers were Mrs. Smith, worthy high priestess; Russell Hicks, watchman of shepherds; Mrs. Robbie Walters, scribe; Mrs. Emma Scheible, treasurer; Mrs. Mabel Beers, noble prophetess; John Stonebraker, associate watchman of shepherds; Mrs. Avis Albright, chaplain; Mrs. Mary Allwood, shepherdess and Mrs. Jane Freeman, guide.

An open installation for the new officers will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday in the temple, and a school of instruction planned for 8 p.m. March 28 will be preceded by a scramble dinner.

The new officers will conduct their first meeting April 11, and members of the Shrine and OES Chapter will serve a Commandery dinner April 12 in the temple.

Appreciation

Mr. and Mrs. Lepthien expressed their appreciation to the shrine officers and members for their cooperation during their terms as watchman of shepherds and worthy high priestess, and Easter baskets filled with colored eggs decorated the tables arranged for a social hour when refreshments were served.

Attending the dinner and meeting were members from Dixon, Mt. Morris, Sterling, Rock Falls, Polo, Deer Grove and Nelson.

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — I have some alabaster doves and animals. I would like to know how to clean the dust and dirt off them and make them white again. — Mrs. P. T.

DEAR MRS. P. T. — I hope some reader can come to our rescue. I have not been able to learn anything very specific about cleaning alabaster. Do dust it regularly with a soft brush that will remove dust from any crevices without scratching. Because of the combination of chalk and powdered marble that go into the making of alabaster I would not put it in water and do not know of a safe way to whiten it. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — Do I have a Pet Peeve? Yes. When pouring cereal into a bowl the flakes often spill all over the counter and when putting the box down the cereal goes down inside between the wax-paper liner and the box. Some liners are so brittle they tear easily. Some will not stay folded to make a pouring side. Such liners have lots of room for improvement. — MARIAN

DEAR POLLY — While Mr. and Mrs. J. P. D. were vacationing at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City they noticed an employee cleaning a crystal chandelier outside the private entrance to their suite. Mrs. D. asked what he was using and the man said "straight ammonia." Since he was using a cloth the palms of his hands and his fingers had become the opposite color from his skin. Mrs. D. realized her already light skin could not endure using the exact procedure on her crystal chandeliers at home so she came up with the idea of filling a tall slender water glass with ammonia. She began at the bottom of the chandelier with the crystal balls and dipped a few prisms at a time in and out of the glass. The entire chandelier was cleaned in a few minutes. Begin at the bottom to keep any drips of ammonia from falling on your hands. — MRS. J.P.D.

POLLY'S NOTE — Watch those fumes.

DEAR POLLY — I have a mentally retarded foster child. After weeks and even months of her putting her clothes on backwards I finally took a laundry marker and made a mark on the inside back of all her clothing. She now has fun looking for the marks. All she has to remember is that all marks go in the back. With a needle and thread I made a small knot in the toe of each of her socks. When she finds the knot she knows her socks are right side out. I hope this idea saves other mothers and foster mothers of handicapped children the time it has saved me. — ESTHER M. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The best strokes in life are free

(Note: Today's column is written by Joanne)
By this time we're all aware of the sorry state of the national economy. But we may be ignoring an equally important aspect of human give and take called "the stroke economy."

A stroke is the term first used by the late Eric Berne, founder of Transactional Analysis. You also may have heard about strokes in "I'm OK, You're OK," or the popular paperback, "Born to Win." A stroke signifies one unit of interpersonal communications, such as a greeting, a gesture of affection, a kind word, a smile.

According to Berne and the later TA popularizers, people need strokes as much as they need food. While our food supply is limited, causing millions of people to go hungry, our stroke supply is unlimited. Nevertheless, many people are starved for strokes.

Clinical psychologist Claude Steiner, who worked closely with Berne, cites this case of stroke starvation in his new book, "Scripts People Live."

"An alcoholic who lived in a skid row hotel," reports Steiner, "received only two strokes daily from the clerk at the hotel desk from Tuesday to Sunday, 30 strokes each Monday when he appeared at the alcoholic clinic, and once a month, a dozen extra strokes from the physician who renewed his prescription. His vitality was almost completely sapped and he reminded me of human beings who live on starvation diets of rice. Eventually his stroke-starved state of apathy prevented him from coming to the clinic and later he was found dead in his room."

Steiner admits this is an extreme example but he believes most of us suffer from a stroke deficit. In order to rectify the sorry state of the stroke economy, Steiner believes we parents must stop training people for lovelessness.

We've got to eliminate the five injunctions against strokes—change the old don'ts to DO's:

- Do give strokes if you have them to give.
- Do ask for strokes when you need them.
- Do accept strokes if you want them.
- Do reject strokes when you don't want them. (Steiner cites the example of the beauty queen who begins to resent strokes given because of her good looks. She wants strokes to be given for other reasons—brains, talent, personality.)
- Do give yourself strokes. According to Steiner, most children are taught that self-praise and self-love are sinful, shameful and wrong.

Many of us warn our children not to give their love freely because we don't want them to be hurt by those who will "rip off strokes" or fail to reciprocate love. But Steiner believes lovelessness, which can result in depression, is a greater threat than stroke surplus.

In his experience as a clinical psychologist, Steiner has found that people who are given permission to use these five means of attaining stroke satisfaction are able to go beyond the rigid limitations of stifling "scripts" or preconceived life plans to achieve their full potential.

You may not agree with everything Steiner says concerning strokes, but at least it's comforting to know that this is one economic problem we can do something about.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: As a mother, I was disturbed by the letter from the Oklahoma teacher who wrote the set of rules for parents which she said were "guaranteed to produce thoroughly messed-up kids."

As a parent, I hope you will print my rules which might provide interesting reading for certain teachers.

1. If you are having trouble with a child, don't let the parents know. Talk behind his back to friends, other teachers, and other parents.

2. Don't bother to write a thank-you note for a gift from a student. After all, it takes a lot of time to write 25 or 30 notes. (Never mind about the time it took to select the gift. It doesn't count.) You told the child "thank you" when he gave it to you. That's enough.

3. Never apologize when you have made an error. What's done is done—even if you learn later the child was not guilty. An apology might ruin your "image."

4. Ridicule a child in front of the class. It doesn't hurt to be cut down before one's peers. It makes a child more "humble."

5. Leave no doubt in anyone's mind as to who your "pets" are. Wealth and social position rate "rewards." Give special attention and privileges to children, nieces and nephews of school board members, and those from rich and influential families.

6. When you attend PTA meetings, go out of your way to be pleasant and attentive to parents with clout, money, and prestige. After all, it's smart to know what side your bread is buttered on.

I hope you can find room for this in your column, Ann. I know a few teachers who need this message.—Way Out West

Dear Way Out: Here's your "message." For the teachers who don't need it, it will mean nothing. For those who do—well, shape up.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widower in my mid-seventies, in good health, and I enjoy a variety of interests. My problem is not loneliness, one so many older folks write about. In fact, it's just the opposite. I am pestered to death by well-meaning people who want to play "Cupid's Little Helper."

I am not a recluse, Ann. I enjoy church and social functions. I like people, but I also enjoy the tranquility of my little home, my books, and my garden.

Because I try to be congenial, many widows have interpreted my friendliness as a signal for help. They insist on "rescuing me from my misery." The worst offenders are the minister and his wife, and a few social workers who are determined to put a woman in my kitchen.

If you will be good enough to print my letter, I'm sure it would help. Thank you.—Alone But Not Lonely

Dear Not Lonely: Why are you so defensive? No one can drag you where you don't want to go. Nor can people inflict themselves on you if you prefer to be alone. You've got high class worries, Dad. Kwitchee-beefin.

Confidential to Rudderless: Leo Rosten said it best. "The purpose of life is to matter—to count, to stand for something." From your letter, I get the strong impression that you need a cause. Look around you. There is plenty of work to be done.

Mrs. Hofmann to present AAUW program

The Dixon Branch, American Association of University Women, will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Loveland Community House when an illustrated travelogue, "Let's Go Rafting," will be presented by Mrs. Robert Hofmann, who will describe her family's experiences traveling by raft on the Colorado River and off the coast of Belize, British Honduras.

Serving on the evening's hostess committee will be Mrs. Philip Hain, chairman; Mrs. Winford Kyker, Mrs. M. K. Mugharbel, Mrs. Hal Weaver and Mrs. William Cies.

Developing hepatitis vaccine

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — In a sudden rush of progress, medical scientists have opened the tantalizing prospect of vaccination against hepatitis viruses attacking the liver.

It is as yet no more than a prospect — perhaps a distant one.

Ten years ago it wasn't known what viruses, if any, caused hepatitis with its jaundiced sickness and frequent deaths.

Now, from recent discoveries, there is evidence that the viruses guilty of two kinds of hepatitis are being unmasked. Such identification usually is a first step on the long path toward a safe and effective vaccine to protect the liver, a vital organ that secretes bile, helps form blood, and removes some poisons from blood.

Complicating the problem is that at least two vaccines would be needed.

One would be against infectious hepatitis, Hepatitis A, caused by a virus found in sewage and polluted water — a virus that can infect foods such as oysters and clams or be transmitted by unsanitary methods of handling food.

Second is serum hepatitis, or Hepatitis B, usually transmitted by transfusions of blood or blood products, or by dirty needles used by drug addicts, or by contamination of needles used in piercing ears, or in tattooing, or in medical injections. Mosquitoes can pass it, too.

It is estimated that 700,000 Americans are possible carriers of Hepatitis B and don't know it.

About 60,000 Americans contract hepatitis, either A or B, each year, and more to 10 per cent, meaning 6,000 at the upper limit, die from it.

The only known treatment, so far, is bed rest and nutritious diet. You just have to let an unpleasant, often painful sickness run its course.

Hepatitis may begin with vague feelings of not being well, of nausea, loss of appetite, then diarrhea, vomiting and dehydration. Eyes turn yellow, and later the skin. Urine turns dark. The liver enlarges and hurts. It becomes hard to stay awake. Then in four weeks or so in the majority of cases the woes go away. Convalescence takes weeks. Complications persist in 15 per cent of patients. Adults are hit harder than children.

Research in hepatitis was stalled until the late 1960's, says Dr. Robert H. Purcell, head of the hepatitis virus section, Laboratory of Infectious Diseases, of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases here.

An initial break, little recognized at first, came in 1964 when Dr. Buruch S. Blumberg, while he was at the National Institutes of Health, found a curious protein material in the blood of an Australian aborigine while doing blood-genetics studies.

Then researchers began finding this same Australian antigen (an antigen being any substance that stimulates antibodies against it) in the blood of people who had Type B or serum hepatitis, and in hemophiliacs who had received many blood transfusions.

But no such antigen showed up in the blood of normal people or people with Type A or infectious hepatitis.

Further investigations now have disclosed that the Australian antigen exists in three forms. The most complex of the three, called the Dane particle after the British researcher Dr. D.M.S. Dane, seems to contain genetic material. This could mean it is the real virus or infectious agent in Type B serum hepatitis.

Scientists are working with this lead toward full identification of a virus and perhaps later development of a vaccine. A roadblock is that the Dane particle cannot, so far, be grown in tissue culture, the usual process through which to produce quantities of a virus to make a vaccine.

But chimpanzees and rhesus monkeys can be infected with it. This offers a way to study the characteristics of the presumed virus.

And it offers a way to prepare large quantities of blood plasma containing Hepatitis B antigen. It may be possible to produce a vaccine, using an inactivated antigen or particle, that can be tested to see if it protects chimpanzees infected with live virus.

Type A virus, like Type B, cannot yet be grown in tissue cultures, but it does infect marmosets, and infected blood from these small monkeys is being used now in research to isolate the virus. Marmoset breeding colonies and other research are supported by the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, the Bureau of Biologics of the Food and Drug Administration and the Center for Disease Control headquarters in Atlanta, Ga.

"As yet, we have no idea how to approach a vaccine for Type A," Purcell says. And, as yet, there is no method of screening for the presence of Type A in human blood, as there is for Type B.

But with the tempting prospects for vaccines or other new defense, the research push is accelerating, and the National Institutes of Health budget for research in hepatitis has risen from $1.5 million in 1970 to $5.2 million in 1974.

A Children-and-Family Services Center

'Job is to respond to any report of child neglect'

By WILLIAM C. WERTZ
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Most people use the telephone to seek help from the Department of Children and Family Services, says Frank Hapli, head of the department's Sangamon County office.

"Typically we'll get a call from a relative or a neighbor saying that some child is being neglected," Hapli said in an interview. "Maybe the child isn't being dressed warmly, or fed properly, or maybe the mother is going out to the tavern at night and leaving the children alone. Our job is to respond to any reported cases of neglect, like this, or actual abuse."

Hapli heads a staff of 17 which operates out of an old two-story frame house. It is a tiny part of the statewide department which has requested a $135 million budget for fiscal 1976.

"We moved here in May in an effort to become more visible and more accessible to the people," Hapli said. He said the county offices used to be located near an industrial park some four miles south of town.

"I think a lot of people still look on us as a rip-off agency, the people who come in and take your kids away," said caseworker Jan Laubhan.

Hapli said he thought that image was changing.

"Our main priority is protecting children. I think that's proper," Hapli said. "But a secondary goal, one that's almost as important, is to keep kids in the home."

Hapli acknowledged that these goals were often conflicting, and that it is sometimes necessary to take children out of their homes for their own protection.

Errors have been made, Hapli said.

In 1972, a 6-year-old Chicago boy named Johnny Lindquist was beaten in his home and died. DCFS had authorized the boy's return to his parents over the objections of the foster family he had lived with for three years. His father, William, was later convicted of involuntary manslaughter and his mother, Irene, of aggravated battery. Both are serving prison terms.

"Our agency catches a lot of flak. Some of it is deserved.

But there is no way you can handle the number of cases we do without making mistakes," Hapli said.

DCFS tries to place children in foster homes or with child-care agencies in the state when they must be removed from their homes, Hapli said.

Two years ago it was disclosed that nearly 800 wards of the state were being cared for in out-of-state institutions thousands of miles from Illinois. Most were returned to the state although some who wanted to remain were allowed to.

"The lid is really on now, as far as putting someone in an out-of-state institution is concerned. It has to go all the way up to the department director for approval," Hapli said.

Other controversies surrounded the appointment of Jerome G. Miller to head the department in 1973. Gov. Daniel Walker replaced Miller with Mary Lee Leahy, the current director, in 1974. He later said Miller had been a good idea man, but a poor administrator.

Ms. Laubhan said she thought Miller had angered private child-care agencies by insisting that they accept more of the burden of caring for children with physical or mental problems that made them hard to place in foster homes.

"They got rid of him because they didn't want responsibility," she said.

Ms. Laubhan and Hapli said Miller deserved credit for making the department more accessible to people.

Ms. Laubhan said she had a caseload of around 80, including about 20 children placed in foster homes. She said that was too many.

"We end up working from crisis to crisis. You end up neglecting some cases," she said.

Hapli said his staff is divided into two teams which are on call 24 hours a day in alternate months. He said his caseworkers often responded at night to calls from hospitals reporting possible cases of child abuse.

Ms. Laubhan said she and other caseworkers have no police powers and cannot demand entry into a home.

"If we feel a child is in any danger, we have to get a policeman to accompany us," she said.

"People shouldn't feel scared about us. We're not police officers, we're not public aid workers, and we don't make moral judgments about things that don't concern the welfare of children," Ms. Laubhan said.

Hapli and Ms. Laubhan said their office often is able to help troubled families by assigning them a "homemaker," a person hired under contract to provide various services.

"The homemaker might help a mother get her budget straight, or provide transportation, or help her organize her housework, any sort of thing which might improve the family situation," said Ms. Laubhan.

"It may be that because of our efforts a mother is finally able to get out of bed in the morning and get breakfast for her children instead of making the 8-year-old do it," she said.

"That doesn't sound like much, but that's a lot of what we do. That's a success for us," she said.

Chinese grandparents spoil their kids too, says specialist

CHICAGO (AP) — Chinese grandmothers are accused of spoiling their grandchildren just like American grandmothers, says a child care specialist just back from China.

"All the grandmas want to do is feed them," young Chinese mothers complained to her.

Dividends will spur market says economist

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The way to get people back to work, help corporations raise capital and restore stock market values is remarkably simple, said the speaker, a professor, economist, author and investor.

First, he said, you must recognize that a new rationale is needed in the stock market. The growth philosophy of the 1960s is finished, he said. In that decade growth was almost guaranteed. Today, growth is uncertain.

What is needed is dividends, he said. Give investors some real cash and they'll respond by buying more stocks, thus giving the capital-starved industries the funds to expand and create new jobs.

At this point any corporate officer gives a condescending smile. Corporations just don't have the money to pay out in dividends. They have, in fact, been forced to cut them. In 1940, more than 5 per cent of national income was in the form of dividend payments; in 1974, only 2.8 per cent.

For stock market prices to rise, stocks have to return appreciably more than bonds, commercial paper or certificates of deposit. But in recent years such debt instruments have returned more than stocks, partly because of more favorable tax treatment.

Leo Barnes, professor of finance and investments at Hofstra University, and originator of the immensely popular annual volume, "Your Investments," responds with this solution:

"Make all cash dividends tax deductible as a business expense for the corporations that pay them, just as they now deduct the interest payments on their debt."

Says Barnes: "Logically, it makes no sense to treat the interest paid on bonds and other debt capital as a deductible business expense, but not the dividends paid on equity capital."

He continued: "It's irrational. All the cash costs of capital should be tax deductible." Otherwise, he maintains, the tax system gives an unfair break to one form of capital raising over another.

"With dividends tax deductible, companies would be eager not only to pay dividends as large as possible but also, as the prices of their stocks recovered, to finance their capital needs once again through stock."

Relating the situation to jobs, Barnes said: "Jobs just don't happen. It is capital that makes jobs — approximately $60,000 per job — while jobs provide the customers for what capital and labor produce."

It is this point, the interrelationship of jobs and capital, and corporate and labor interests, that people find difficult to understand, Barnes continued.

One example: "A healthy stock market is surely important to workers retiring or contemplating retirement on the benefits received from union-negotiated pension and profit-sharing plans whose assets are heavily in equities."

Barnes finds, however, that there exists a strong prejudice against the stock market and capital. It is time, he believes, for practical thinking devoid of old emotions.

While Congress hasn't shown much active interest in the idea — although Barnes hasn't as yet testified before it, either — some recognition has come from Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

The decisive power, Barnes believes, rests with labor. "Some labor leaders have been realistic and have recognized the deep mutual interdependence between capital and jobs," he said. But more remain to be convinced.

Barnes feels it is especially important to promote his idea to labor because the job force is growing at the very time job openings are drying up. Says Barnes:

"Think about these two con-

January in China with 20 other educators specializing in early childhood education.

Mrs. Weissbourd chairs the governor's advisory commission to the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services and is educational director of the suburban Evanston Child Care Center.

About half of the preschool children in China participate in organized day-care programs, she reported in an interview Monday, while the others are cared for by grandmothers.

In addition to not wanting their children spoiled, Chinese mothers also favor day-care centers for their children so they can play with others and can learn, Mrs. Weissbourd said.

However, they let the children remain with grandma so as not to hurt her feelings, she added.

Young Chinese mothers now are career oriented so it is likely that in the future, as they become grandmothers, this type of care will disappear, she said.

Children who are sent to day-care centers start school, at age 7, more advanced than those cared for at home, she said, but the difference soon disappears. In cities, day-care centers are attached to factories and babies are placed there as young as 56 days of age, she said. Their mothers go to nurse them three times a day while working.

In rural areas, she said, young children are cared for in homes by grandmothers, and they do not have the benefit of trained child-care workers that is available in cities.

Unlike American schools, Chinese schools do not encourage individuality, Mrs. Weissbourd said, adding that from the beginning children are taught to help others, to further the cause of socialism.

Mrs. Weissbourd said Chinese educators report there are not emotionally disturbed children there. There is no way for a visitor to confirm this, she pointed out.

However, she said, it could be true because in China there are no unemployment, alcoholism and broken family problems such as those in this country which cause 3-year-olds to fall apart.

Education in China has been traditional and authoritarian, she said, but is changing to help children to solve problems, to learn better ways of doing things.

Examinations are being revamped so they no longer are designed to trick students, to weed them out, but to help them learn to further the goals of socialism, Mrs. Weissbourd said.

She said she saw no aggression among children, and that teachers consider a child naughty when he is merely restless.

"The expectation that children will be good creates a behavior," she said, indicating that they are good because they are expected to be.

Children are not punished but are treated "with a real gentleness and patience," she said. Children are taught philosophical concepts about the benefits of socialism and the greatness of Chairman Mao, and even though it might seem that 3 years is too young to learn such things, they are taught in sequence and assume an importance, Mrs. Weissbourd said.

Children are shown pictures of the horrors of factory labor before the revolution and are told by their grandparents about how much better life is now, she said.

"The bitter past is the bogey man," she said.

Your list

You, too, can find out where your food dollar buys more. Make a shopping comparison test of your own. It's the one true way to convince yourself that Eagle prices are lower.

Your test

Take your family's regular shopping list to Eagle and one or more other supermarkets. Note the prices for everything on your list. Then figure your total bill at each store. Remember, it's what you pay for all you take home that's important. Not the price of one or two "specials!"

Your answer

When you compare the entire amount you would pay at each store you have the answer to your shopping problems. That's the proof you've been looking for. We think you'll be convinced that Eagle will save you money whenever you shop.

Mrs. Arnold Habben

Mrs. Arnold Habben proved $6.91 savings at Eagle!

Mrs. Habben proved it to herself. She purchased items of her choice at Eagle for $57.75. She then bought comparable items at another supermarket of her own choosing for $64.66. Mrs. Habben proved an Eagle savings of $6.91! That's 11.9%! Test taken 1/9/75.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE D 609: Gerald K., aged 26, has shocked his beautiful wife by having a rendezvous with a paramour.

"Dr. Crane," his tearful wife protested, "we have been ideally happy these first three years of our marriage."

"But now I feel crushed and doubly so, for Gerald and I have a new baby not yet 6 months old!

"So how could he be so cruel as to turn his back on both me and our baby boy?"

"Should I get a divorce, for I don't believe I can ever be happy with him again?"

Jilted Hubby

Gerald is a classical case of a "jilted" husband!

So scrapbook this example for use in your prenatal discussion groups that are becoming popular throughout America.

For example, Gerald had been an "only" child, so he had been accustomed all throughout his youth to 100 per cent of the adult spotlight, both from his parents and four grandparents.

It even made him chafe a bit to enter matrimony and thus be reduced to but 50 per cent of the attention, since he now had to split attention on a 50-50 basis with his charming wife.

Yet regular readers of this column will recall my warning that a wife if about 25 per cent erotic and 75 per cent maternal.

But during the first year of two of marriage, she "mothers" her mate and thus satisfies her maternal cravings.

Alas, when the new baby arrives, she often unwittingly jilts her husband by shifting not only that 75 per cent of attention away from him and putting it on the baby.

"But Dr. Crane," many young husbands protest, "my wife not only turned 75 per cent of her former attention from me to the baby."

"In fact, she shifted 95 per cent of her time and attention to our new infant!"

Yet the young mother doesn't realize that she has, in effect, jilted her mate much as many parents likewise jilt the first-born when they devote most of their attention to the second baby!

Gerald was especially vulnerable to this jilting, since he had been the only child and thus had developed a 20-year "addiction" to adult attention.

Remember, this craving for the spotlight can be as serious and devastating as the hunger for dope or alcohol!

When his wife suddenly showered her attention on the newborn (which is a very natural tendency of young mothers) she figured that Gerald should understand that she still loved him dearly.

And Gerald was now an adult husband with enough mental age to comprehend that fact.

But emotions often overpower the brain, so even his adult

IQ didn't insure him from the unvoiced dislike of playing second fiddle to an intruder, even though the interloper was his own infant son!

In his resulting disturbed emotional state, coupled with his wife's lack of enthusiasm for boudoir cheesecake, he developed a cumulative hunger for romancing.

When he happened to meet a voluptuous paramour at a sales convention and her compliments proved a solace to his deflated ego, he spent a night with her at the hotel.

This marital problem definately does NOT merit even a remote thought of a divorce!

It is due to ignorance of proper marital psychology, both by Gerald and his wife, and even his parents for limiting their family to one child!

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

FTC to get refunds for desert property buyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The promotional movie gave an exciting picture for prospective buyers of land sites ranging from $2,000 to $5,000. The trouble was, says the Federal Trade Commission, the grass was painted green and the pine cones on the trees were tied on.

Because of such misrepresentations, the FTC says, it will use a law passed last year to get refunds for consumers who bought largely inaccessible desert properties from Horizon Corp. and AMREP Corp.

J. Thomas Rosch, director of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, declined to estimate how much money might be involved. Rosch said the two firms have sold land to 215,000 people since the 1950s, $200 million worth in the last three years alone for Horizon and $100 million between 1968 and 1973 for AMREP.

"We look forward to the commencement of the hearings," Horizon Corp., said in a statement "because we feel that once the evidence is produced our practices and our policy of providing an opportunity to the public to purchase land will be vindicated."

AMREP, like Horizon, said it had complied with all federal and state laws. The corporation condemned "as reprehensible and un-American" the publication of the charges before the FTC had served notice on the firm.

Horizon's headquarters are in Tucson, Ariz. It operates Paradise Hills and Rio communities near Houston; Arizona Sunsites near Tucson; and Whispering Ranch near Phoenix.

AMREP's headquarters are in New York. The firm operates Rio Rancho estates near Albuquerque, N.M.; Silver Springs Shores near Ocala, Fla.; Oakmont Shores in Missouri's Ozarks.

Richwoods bombs Sterling 94-63

Proviso East upsets East Leyden

By The Associated Press
Proviso East, the defending state champion, engineered one of three upsets in the Class AA Illinois high school basketball supersectionals Tuesday night to lead eight survivors to the quarter-finals which begin Friday in the University of Illinois Assembly Hall.

Joining Proviso East will be Phillips of Chicago, Waukegan, Rockford Auburn, Peoria Richwoods, East St. Louis, Bloomington and Chicago Heights Bloom.

Proviso East knocked off East Leyden, the last of the state's undefeated teams, 72-60, as Jerry Montgomery scored 20 points to offset the Eagles' All-State twins—Glen Grunwald and Tom Dore. Grunwald finished with 17 points and Dore had 16.

Derek Holcomb poured across 30 points and All-State Chris Williams added 18 to lead third-ranked Peoria Richwoods to an easy 94-63 victory over Sterling. Richwoods' Knights will advance to Champaign with a 29-1 record, matched only by Phillips of Chicago.

Bloomington got another splendid performance from All-State Bob Bender to blow past Decatur Eisenhower 71-63. Bender scored 20 points, 13 in the final period to provide the victory. Jim Oldham of Eisenhower led all scorers with 21 points.

Hubert Hoosman scored 32 points and Charles Anthony added 25 to lead East St. Louis to an 89-77 triumph over Olney. Terry Bussard was high for Olney with a respectable 26 points.

Bloom of Chicago Heights, last year's state runnerup, slugged its way past Lincoln-Way with a 57-30 decision behind a balanced attack led by Kelvin Small and Anthony Kennedy with 11 points each. Larry Lowe helped with 11 rebounds. Phillips of Chicago, ranked

No. 2 most of the season, swept past Morgan Park, 65-60, to win the Chicago Public League title and gain a berth in the quarter-finals at Champaign.

Bob Byrd and Vince Robinson led the attack with 19 points each and All-State Larry Williams added 15 as the Wildcats avenged their loss to Morgan Park last year. Levi Cobb led Morgan Park with 19 points.

Phillips will face Waukegan which upset Maine South 50-41. Heywood Campbell with 14 points and Chris Calhoun with 12 led Waukegan and offset a 19-point performance by All-State Pete Boesen.

Waukegan led from the start and held a 23-17 halftime lead, but Maine South opened the second half with nine straight points to take the lead. The Bulldogs, however, rambled back into a 29-26 lead and stayed ahead the rest of the game.

The biggest turnaround came in Rockford Auburn's 58-45 victory over Aurora West. West went ahead 28-18 at the half, but Rockford Auburn outscored the Blackhawks 40-17 in the second half to make the game a runaway.

Steve Cossey, a 5-foot-8 guard, led the way with 26 points and scored eight in the final period. Cossey also put Rockford ahead to stay with a basket for a 38-37 lead with 7:21 to play.

Rufus Simon added 17 points to the Rockford total and Greg Rodgers topped Aurora West with 17 points.

The eight supersectionals in the Class AA Illinois High School Basketball Tournament attracted a total attendance of 43,691 on Tuesday.

The Bloomington-Decatur Eisenhower game at Normal was tops with 7,500 followed by 7,100 at Peoria in the game involving Peoria Richwoods and Sterling.

In order, the playoffs drew 6,

892 at Evanston, 6,000 at Carbondale, 4,500 at DeKalb, 4,400 at Aurora East, 4,225 at Joliet Central and 3,074 at Chicago.

Hubert Hoosman of East St. Louis has taken the early individual scoring lead among surviving teams in the Class AA Illinois High School Basketball Tournament.

Hoosman scored 32 points in East St. Louis' 89-77 victory over Olney to take a two-point lead over Derek Holcomb of Peoria Richwoods who had 30.

Others remaining in the individual scoring race are Steve Cossey of Rockford Auburn with 26, Charles Anthony of East St. Louis with 25, All-State Bob Bender of Bloomington and Jerry Montgomery of Proviso East with 20 each, Bob Byrd and Vince Robinson of Phillips with 19 each and Chris Williams of Peoria Richwoods with 18.

The horn tooting begins

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Most of the horn tooting in the NCAA college basketball tournament seems to be happening before the games.

The coaches of the 16 teams remaining in the tourney spent part of Tuesday beating their own chests, then doing a paraphrase on the old "the only thing to fear is fear itself" number.

It's part of the psychological buildup, and hardly anyone does it better than Maryland's Lefty Driesell.

"We're not scared of anybody," Driesell said. "And if we put it all together, people had better be scared of us."

The fourth-ranked Terps, 23-4, overcame pesky Creighton, 83-79 last Saturday to earn a date with No. 9 Notre Dame, 19-8, for a second-round Midwest Regional game Thursday night at Las Cruces, N.M.

The other Midwest Regional game pits No. 12 Cincinnati, 22-5, against No. 3 Louisville, 25-2.

"This is a challenge to our ball club and they've fooled a lot of people all year long," Driesell said. "People counted us out all year and then again after we lost two straight games to Clemson and North Carolina."

"Now they're counting us out again. They'd better not do that if they're smart. We're one of the best teams in the country and our record proves it."

Besides the Midwest battles Thursday night, there will be the East Regional at Providence, R.I., which has Syracuse, 21-7, against North Carolina, 22-7, and Boston College, 21-7, against Kansas State, 19-8. Then, there's the Midwest Regional, matching Kentucky, 23-4, against Central Michigan, 21-5, and Indiana, 30-0, against Oregon State, 19-10. And in the West Regional at Portland, Ore., Arizona State, 24-3, plays Nevada-Las Vegas, 23-4, and Montana, 21-6, meets UCLA, 24-3.

Maryland beat Notre Dame

90-82 in an earlier meeting this season and the Terps again will have to contend with All-American Adrian Dantley, who scored 29 points in that game.

"Dantley is a great offensive player," Driesell said. "In the last game, just about everybody guarded him. We'll stick a lot of different people on him this time, unless one person does a good job."

But Driesell isn't scared of Dantley or any combination of Dantley and four others. "We're going into this tournament with a positive attitude," Driesell said. "We realize that all it takes is four (more) games to win the national championship, and we think we can do it."

"At this point, a lot of people would have had reason to be skeptical of us," he said. "But they'd better look out for us now."

"We're not afraid of Notre Dame, UCLA, North Carolina or anybody that's in this tournament."

McAdoo gets 51 in vain

By The Associated Press
What did Bob McAdoo do? Plenty...but not enough.

Buffalo's 6-foot-10 center pumped in an overwhelming 51 points Tuesday night...but Rudy Tomjanovich and Calvin Murphy combined for 64, carrying the Houston Rockets to a 122-115 victory over the Braves.

Tomjanovich got 34 points and Murphy 30 to help the Rockets snap a five-game National Basketball Association losing streak and maintain their 1½-game edge over third-place Cleveland in the Central Division.

The Cavaliers, battling with the New York Knicks for the wild-card playoff berth that goes to the best third-place team in the Eastern Conference, upended Washington 112-98 while the Knicks beat Los Angeles 109-100 to stay within half a game of Cleveland in the conference standings.

In other NBA games, Chicago beat Philadelphia 111-96, Boston whipped Detroit 116-90, Kansas City-Omaha edged Atlanta 105-101; Golden State walloped Phoenix 133-103 and Portland defeated Milwaukee 95-89.

Houston took the lead to stay in the second period, led 59-52 at the half and steadily pulled out to an insurmountable 14-point margin midway in the third period.

"That man is fantastic," Tomjanovich said of McAdoo. "He should be bronzed."

Cavaliers 112, Bulls 98
Bobby Smith and Dick Snyder each connected for 23 points to lead Cleveland.

Knicks 109, Lakers 100
New York, led by Walt Frazier's 27 points plus 23 by John Gianelli and 21 by Earl Monroe, outscored the Lakers 21-4 in the final seven minutes to stay in the thick of the playoff skirmish.

Bulls 111, 76ers 96
Chet Walker's 30 points led Chicago past Philadelphia.

Celtics 116, Pistons 90

Boston ran away from Detroit with a 43-point fourth quarter, taking advantage of the absence of the Pistons' big man, Bob Lanier, out with a knee injury.

Kings 105, Hawks 101
With Kansas City-Omaha nursing a 99-97 lead in the final minute, Larry McNeill tapped in a rebound and seconds later hit two free throws to make it 103-97 and finish off the Hawks.

Warriors 133, Suns 103
Rick Barry returned from two games on the injury list with a neck muscle spasm to score 28 points in 29 minutes and lead Golden State past the Suns.

Trail Blazers 95, Bucks 89
John Johnson pumped in 18 points to lead Portland to a come-from-behind victory over Milwaukee.

STERLING — The Sauk Valley Redmen set three school records and finished with eight first places to win a junior college quadrangular at the Westwood Sports Complex, here, Tuesday.

The Redmen quartet of Rod Deter, Jon Gieson, Bill Williams and Bill Smith established a record with a 1:41, 1:35.8 clocking in the 880-yard relay to better the previous mark of 1:41 set in 1973. Williams, Gieson, Greg Bontz, and Smith then teamed up to run the mile relay in 3:40 to better the 3:43 mark also set in 1973.

Sauk ended with 65 points to outdistance Spoon River's 39. Kishwaukee was third with 18 and Illinois Valley fourth with 14. Don Harms tossed the shot 45'9" to capture that event for the Redmen. Mickey Trader took the 880-yard dash in 2:07.

In the long jump, Gieson was second with a 20' effort and Williams third with 19'8". Williams came back to take second in the triple jump (38'9½"). Ed Ross was second (4:46) in the mile with Tim Knigge third (5:00). Knigge took the two mile in 11:11 with Ross second in 11:30.

Gieson won the 70-yard hurdles in :09.2. In the 60-yard dash, Deter was first with a record :06.3. Smith was also clocked in :06.3 for second and Gary Kithcart took fourth in :06.8. In the 300-yard dash, Deter claimed first in :33.4, Bontz second (:34.5) and Smith third (:34.6). The Redmen now travel to the Morton Invitational on Saturday for the last indoor meet of the season. Sauk will open outdoors at Black Hawk on April 4.

McGraw still believes, hitters do too

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
Relief pitcher Tug McGraw still believes.

When he was a member of the New York Mets, McGraw's remark "You gotta believe!" became the rallying cry of the fans as the Mets went on to win the 1973 National League pennant.

Tuesday, the left-hander, now with the Philadelphia Phillies, checked into a Philadelphia hospital for tests prior to the removal of a lump near the lower tip of his left shoulder blade.

"I'm leaving this up to the doctors," the 30-year-old McGraw said. "They say there's nothing seriously wrong with me. When the doctors say it, well, you gotta believe, right?"

In Tuesday's exhibition games, it was the hitters who were doing the believing.

Baltimore stopped Texas 11-8, the Chicago White Sox edged Cincinnati 7-5, Detroit nipped Montreal 11-10, Milwaukee stopped Oakland 8-7, California defeated Cleveland 5-4, Houston beat Kansas City 5-2, the Chicago Cubs downed San Francisco 4-1, the New York Mets beat Boston 5-4, Minnesota knocked over Atlanta 5-3, St. Louis crushed Philadelphia 12-3, and New York Yankees topped Pittsburgh 3-2. Don Baylor's two home runs—giving him four in the last two games—powered the Baltimore Orioles over the Texas Rangers. The outfielder also drove in a first-inning run on a fielder's choice as the two teams rapped out a total of 26 hits.

Two homers by Buddy Bradford lifted the Chicago White Sox over the Cincinnati Reds. Ed Herrmann also homered for the Pale Hose while Tony Perez slammed a roundtripper for Cincinnati.

Milwaukee's Bob Coluccio drove in five runs—four of them on two home runs—including the go-ahead marker in the ninth against Oakland. Joe Rudi homered for the A's and Tom Bianco hit a two-run homer for the Brewers.

A lead-off triple by Detroit's Ron LeFlore and a wild pitch ended Montreal's eight-game winning streak. LeFlore also had a home run while Bill Freehan hit a two-run triple and rookie left fielder Dan Meyer slammed a two-run homer.

Reggie Smith drove in two runs with a homer and a triple as the Cards routed the Phillies. The Mets erupted for seven hits to score four runs in the seventh inning against the Red Sox. Tony Conigliaro, who has been out of baseball for 3½ years after being hit in the face by a pitch, slammed two doubles and a single in five at-bats for the Red Sox.

Houston pitcher James Rodney Richard allowed only three hits through six innings as the Astros ended a six-game losing streak.

Right-hander Ray Burris gave up only one hit—a bunt single—in the four innings he worked to lead the Cubs to victory.

Randy Bass' two-run double in the ninth lifted Minnesota to victory, and the Yanks swept their two-game series from the Pirates in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Doc Medich pitched six scoreless innings for New York, limiting Pittsburgh to one hit.

The Kings have a future

By The Associated Press
Bob Pulford is coach of the Los Angeles Kings, a National Hockey League team with a present and a future. Charlie Burns guides the Minnesota North Stars, a team with its future in its past.

Bob Pulford coaches a team that picked up only three points in its last six games—and still held a 13-point lead over its nearest Division 3 rivals, the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Charlie Burns coaches a team that deflected two Kings' shots into their own goal Tuesday night.

"I'm not going to tell you how I really feel," said Burns, whose North Stars have won 20 times in 70 games. "We're just not playing good hockey."

That showed in the Kings' 5-3 triumph Tuesday night. Elsewhere in the NHL, the St. Louis Blues tripped the Penguins 5-2, the Vancouver Canucks tied the New York Islanders 4-4 and the Philadelphia Flyers blasted the Washington Capitals 7-2.

Mike Murphy scored twice, one of them with a teammate in the penalty box, and contributed an assist in the Kings' triumph.

Frank St. Marseille, Bob Nevin and Bob Berry were the other Kings scorers. Ernie Hicke, Craig Cameron and Bill Goldsworthy hit for the North Stars.

Blues 5, Penguins 2
Garry Unger and Pierre

Plante scored their 30th goals of the season for St. Louis in their triumph over Pittsburgh.

Canucks 4, Islanders 4
Don Lever's second goal of the game and 34th of the season gave Vancouver its tie with the Islanders.

Flyers 7, Capitals 2
Rick MacLeish scored three goals and had two assists, while Bobby Clarke, Reggie Leach, Ross Lonsberry and Jim Watson added single goals for the Flyers.

WHA Results
It was another frustrating night for Coach Pat Stapleton and his Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association.

First of all, there was the officiating. "We've had the same linesmen three nights in a row, and their interpretation of the rules differs from mine," Stapleton said.

Then there was a 33-second letdown in the second period after the Cougars had whittled a 3-0 deficit to 3-2. "We were pressing and got caught for two goals," he said sheepishly. The goals by Murray Keogan and John Gray opened the floodgates to what ended up a 7-3 Phoenix Roadrunners rout of the Cougars.

In the other WHA games Tuesday night, the Edmonton Oilers trimmed the Quebec Nordiques 8-5 and the Minnesota Fighting Saints topped the Vancouver Blazers 5-3.

Keogan, Gray, and Pete

McNamee each finished with two goals for Phoenix.

Mark Lomenda, Rick Morris and Gary MacGregor had the Cougars goals.

Oilers 8, Nordiques 5
Doug Kerslake, Ed Joyal and Bruce MacGregor scored two goals each to power the Edmonton past Quebec.

Fighting Saints 5, Blazers 3
Ted Hampson, Blake Ball and Wayne Connelly each had a goal and an assist in leading Minnesota past Vancouver.

A marriage license was issued by the office of John Stouffer, county clerk, to Alix Alphonse, 1103 S. Peoria Ave., and Cheryl L. Nelson, Mendota.

3 fined in Lee court

Three persons were fined and a charge against another was dismissed Tuesday in Lee County Circuit Court.

Ronald Farringer, 18, and Steven Daniels, 16, both of Amboy, were each fined $25 on a disorderly conduct charge. The two had been arrested Feb. 23 by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies for fighting in Amboy.

Michael Glick, 18, Milledgeville, was fined $150 on an amended charge of reckless driving. Glick had originally been charged with drag racing following his arrest Jan. 6 by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies.

A petition to revoke his probation was dismissed against David Sims, 18, Compton. Sims had been on probation for burglary arrest, July 16, 1974.

Arrested on woman's complaint

George O. Schultheis, 18, 2102 Factory St., was being held in jail this morning under $1,000 bond and charged with battery.

Schultheis was charged on a complaint signed by Shirley Flynn accusing him of hitting her in the mouth during an argument at her home. The Flynn woman later said when she attempted to contact police, he took the phone from her.

Schultheis was scheduled to appear in court this morning.

Ticketed after car collision

Joanne Weinreich, 27, Rt. 4, was ticketed by Dixon Police for failure to yield at an intersection following a two-car collision at the Hennipen Ave. and River St. intersection.

The Weinreich woman was ticketed after the car she was driving north on Hennipen Ave., pulled into the intersection and struck an auto operated by Jake Gunn, 62, 910 Jay Dee Ave. The Gunn auto was westbound on River Street and attempting a left turn onto Hennipen Ave., at the time of the accident.

Ambulance in crash at Rochelle

ROCHELLE—Rochelle Police investigated an accident Tuesday involving three vehicles.

The collision occurred 200 feet east of U.S. 51 on Ill. 38 and involved a Cluts Ambulance driven by Mark A. Jonassen, 26, 619 Seventh Ave., Rochelle; a van driven by Lyndell G. Bushnell, 31, Rock Falls; and a wrecker operated by Clifford E. Johnson, 29, 918 1/2 N. Sixth St., Rochelle.

At the time of the accident the ambulance was stopped, attempting to turn left off Ill. 38. The Bushnell van also stopped in the line of traffic, waiting for the ambulance to turn. The wrecker driven by Johnson struck the rear of the Bushnell van, and pushed it into the rear of the ambulance. Johnson told investigating officers the brake lights on the Bushnell van were not functioning.

Bushnell was taken to Rochelle Community Hospital for back injuries and was later transferred to Community General Hospital, Sterling, where he was listed in fair condition this morning.

There were no tickets issued and no estimate of the damage.

Boy Scouts to sell pizzas

At a committee of the Madison School Boy Scout Troop, members decided the scouts will sell pizzas to help finance the camping trip this summer to the Northwoods Camp in Michigan.

The troop will participate in the scout show to be held at the Oregon Fairgrounds on May 10 and has picked "Outdoor Survival," as the exhibit theme. Tickets for the show are available from members of the troop.

Jefferson Cubs are inspected

The Arrow of Light and Naturalist award were presented to David Morris.

Hit and run crash reported

Dixon police received a report of a hit and run accident Tuesday in the 300 block of S. Galena Ave.

James R. Haywood, 32, 1921 W. Third St., reported his car was struck sometime between 10:15 a.m. and 10:55 a.m. Tuesday while it was parked facing north in the old Sinclair Gas Station. Haywood said he had left his car parked next to the gas meridian at the station and when he returned the left front fender was damaged.

LCHA meeting

The commissioners of the Lee County Housing Authority will meet Monday at 4 p.m., at 906 Washington Ave.

Other stories in today's news

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A Missouri couple was killed today when the light plane they were flying tore into three trees, lost part of a wing and flipped over in a field 12 miles northwest of here, authorities said.

The Morgan County coroner identified the victims as Gary Mefford, 21, the pilot, and his wife, Meta, both of Kirksville, Mo. They were recently married, authorities said.

Their bodies were discovered after another passenger, Janet Judd, 21, of Lancaster, Mo., walked about a mile for help. She was taken to a Jacksonville hospital.

The plane, a Piper Cherokee, was en route from Bowling Green, Mo., to Kirksville but was diverted into Illinois because of bad weather, authorities said.

Officials at the Springfield airport said the pilot reported he was low on fuel then went down shortly before 4 a.m. The two women were student nurses, authorities said.

The Meffords resided at 719 North Franklin in Kirksville. SHERIDAN, Ill. (AP) — More than 100 police officers and volunteers searched four hours Tuesday night for missing 11-year-old Scott Twait.

Two of his teachers joined in. They stopped under a pine tree and happened to glance upward and there was Scott sitting in branches high above them.

Police Chief Lester Butz in this LaSalle County community of 600 had a talk with the youth.

"He said he had taken his bicycle to a service station to get air for his tires and was later than he thought when he got home," said Butz. "He said he was afraid he would get a spanking so he went to a hiding place. The longer he sat in that tree with dozens of people passing under it looking for him, the more scared he got. He didn't make a sound until he was discovered then he started crying."

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A bill requiring state legislators to be paid monthly has been shelved by a Senate committee.

Under existing law, legislators draw their $20,000 annual salary in a lump sum when the General Assembly convenes in January. Lawmakers also may choose to take the $20,000 for the second year of their term at the same time.

Nineteen legislators drew the full $40,000 this year, including Sen. Donald Swinarski, D-Chicago, who recently pleaded guilty to a federal income tax charge and will apparently have to resign.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott has said he will try to recover part of Swinarski's salary, but it is uncertain whether he will be successful.

Legislation calling for monthly paychecks to lawmakers was introduced by Sen. Harber H. Hall, R-Bloomington.

"No other person in this state has this privilege. It's absolutely unnecessary," he told the Senate Executive Committee Tuesday.

But Sen. Charles Chew, D-Chicago, called Hall's bill "nothing but a political bill to gain favorable press. It's a waste of time to listen to this junk."

The committee vote against the measure was 13 to 5.

LAKE ZURICH, Ill. (AP) — One person was killed and five were injured Tuesday night in a fire at an apartment complex in Lake Zurich, northwest of Chicago.

Firemen had to rescue 80 residents by ladder from the two upper floors of the three-story brick building because of heavy smoke on the first floor where the fire began.

Killed in the blaze at the Waters Edge Apartments was Loreta Stevens, an elderly resident who died of severe burns. Her age was not known.

The five injured included four firemen and a woman paramedic. All were treated for smoke inhalation after helping residents out of their apartments and down ladders. Residents were given overnight lodging with friends or in motels after the fire.

Assistant Fire Chief Robert Block said the fire began in the dead woman's apartment and was confined to that room, though the entire building sustained heavy smoke damage. The building was one of two in the complex.

There was no damage estimate. Although an investigation of the cause was planned, Block said arson was not suspected.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Girl Scout councils in eight states are being warned not to sell boxes of mint cookies from the same batch in which two slivers of glass were found in separate cookies, the Food and Drug Administration says.

The FDA said Tuesday the warning is being issued by the Quaker Oats Co., which made the cookies. However, the FDA said that "on the basis of the information available at this time the FDA has not requested and the company has not initiated a formal recall."

Company spokesman Michael Ross said 5,000 cookies tested by the manufacturer, Burry Biscuit Division of Quaker Oats, have shown no signs of glass, but some small pieces of styrene packing material were found in some cookies.

The first glass sliver was found by a buyer in Ohio. Another sliver was discovered by the Ohio Agriculture Department's foods, dairies and drugs division.

The FDA said Quaker Oats is advising Girl Scout councils to hold until further notice any "Girl Scout Thin Mint Cookies" bearing code number 5034. The FDA said 5,527 cases of code 5034 cookies were manufactured in January and most of them are believed to have been distributed.

The FDA said the following 11 Girl Scout councils had received code 5034 cookies: combined council for South Bend, Ind., and Benton Harbor, Mich.; Falmouth and Sanford, Maine; Elyria and Sandusky, Ohio; Hannibal, Mo.; El Paso, Tex.; York, Pa.; Canton, Ohio; Kittanning and Butler, Pa.; Logansport, Ind.; Columbus, Ohio; and Milwaukee, Wis.

House okays repeal of Fair Trade

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Fair Trade Act would be repealed under legislation approved by the Illinois House, and its chief sponsor says it could mean bargain prices on name-brand products.

The measure sponsored by Rep. Harry Leinenweber, R-Joliet was approved 111-19 Tuesday and sent to the Senate.

"Fair Trade" is a euphemism for price-fixing," Leinenweber told the House, "and the effect of legal price-fixing is the same as the effect of illegal price-fixing, higher prices for the consumer."

The law, which Leinenweber said has been on the books since 1931, permits manufacturers and retailers to set the prices on trademark or name-brand products sold in Illinois.

He said fair trade states have higher prices for comparable products than states without such a law.

Opponents of Leinenweber's proposal said the repeal of the Fair Trade law would put small retailers out of business.

"The big chain store will be able to offer low prices on 'loss leaders' to attract people into their stores and put all the little merchants out of business," said Rep. Robert Craig, D-Danville.

"Then when all the little merchants are out of business, there won't be any problem for the big stores with price-fixing," he added.

Leinenweber said customers often shop in small stores to get higher quality products and service, and that abolition of the Fair Trade law would not change that.

The House and Senate each met briefly as they returned to Springfield for three floor sessions this week.

The House approved a measure to require the Department of Corrections to develop regulations to protect inmates from rape.

The measure, one of a series of measures developed after a 1½-year study of rape law reforms, was sent to the Senate on a 139-2 vote.

The Senate approved a bill to provide free tuition at a state college or university for members of the National Guard or Naval Militia provided they have served at least one year.

The measure was sent to the House where a similar bill, which extends scholarship benefits to those attending private schools as well, was passed two weeks ago.

The House Revenue Committee recommended passage of a bill extending for 2½ years the current 9.5 per cent interest ceiling on home mortgages. Unless new legislation is passed, the interest rate ceiling is due to revert to 8 per cent July 1.

The House Judiciary Committee voted to kill a bill dealing with obscenity. The measure would have put the U.S. Supreme Court's definition of obscenity in the Illinois statutes, but opponents said it failed to define what the high court meant by "community standards."

Under the Supreme Court decision, these standards are instrumental in the determination of what is obscene.

Y to offer summer camp

The Dixon Family YMCA and the Sterling Y are combining in a program to offer resident camping to boys and girls this summer.

The Dixon Y has entered into an agreement with the Sterling-Rock Falls unit for camping at the YMCA's Camp Benson.

The camp is located in Mt. Carroll, 45 miles from Dixon. The program is open to both members and non-members of the Y.

The camp serves boys and girls in the ages of 7 through 14. A total of 382 children were served last year. Modernization and expansion of the camp is under way. The changes will allow the camp to serve 500 this year.

Seven one-week camping sessions are available. The children live in wood-frame cabins; ten campers and two counselors per cabin.

Counselors are trained. College students and graduates serve as senior counselors. Upper high school students work as junior counselors.

Ken Certain is camp director. He resides at the camp throughout the summer program. He has ten years experience as a camp director.

The camp is able to offer a wide variety of activities such as nature lore, swimming, arts and crafts, golf, tennis, horseback riding, rifle range and archery.

Interested parents are asked to call the Dixon Y, 284-3824, for additional information.

Amboy School Board to seek lighting bids

AMBOY—The members of the Board of Education voted to seek bids for emergency lighting and various school supplies for the 1975-76 term, at a meeting held Tuesday night at the high school library.

The emergency lighting is part of the fire safety code requirements and would provide an automatic switch to battery-operated lights in the event of a power failure at the high school and at Central School. The rural attendance centers do not come under the regulation, as they are not used for frequent night-time activities.

Dr. Donald Skidmore, superintendent, was authorized to advertise for bids for the emergency lighting system, also for janitorial supplies, art supplies, electrical supplies, and general school supplies.

A bid was accepted from the Educators Paper and Supply Co., Skokie, to furnish 6,200 reams of mimeo and ditto paper at $1.33 per ream. This supply will be shared with three other schools, Ashton to receive 1,000 reams, District 271 a total 1,700 reams and Steward 800 reams.

Skidmore was given permission to seek bids for five new electric ranges for the cafeterias of the Central, junior high, Sublette, Walton and Maytown Schools. These will be purchased with a supplemental state grant; if the grant is not approved, the stoves will not be purchased this year.

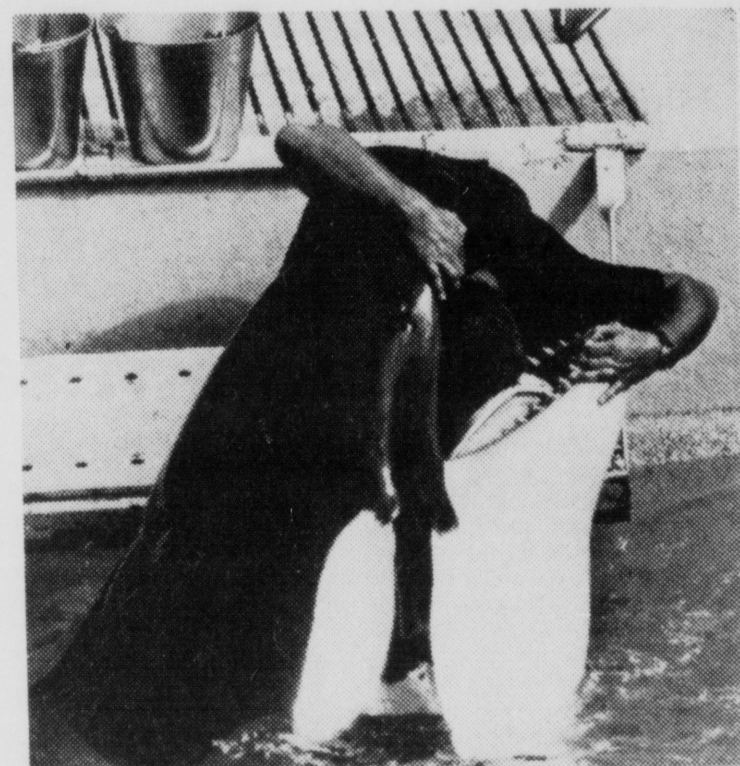

Miss Mary Van Hise and Mrs. James Travi were authorized to select a suitable uniform for girls' athletic teams and to seek bids for them.

In other business, Gary Croe-gaert, high school basketball coach, was granted permission to hold a basketball clinic June 2-13 at the high school. He was also given approval to have the school gym open 7-9 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings beginning June 2, through Aug. 14. The coaching staff of the high school will supervise activities for all ages on the designated nights.

Four first-year teachers and one second-year teacher were given notice their contracts will not be renewed for 1975-76 year.

Bills were approved for payment in the following amounts: $278,729, educational fund; $34,545.67, building fund; $32,888.28, transportation; $7,755.07, Illinois Municipal Retirement; and $55,000 from working cash fund, for a total of $408,918.02. This includes the investment of $245,000 in the First National Bank and $75,555 in the Farmer State Bank, Sublette.

Kindergarten registration at Ohio

OHIO — Kindergarten registration for the Ohio Grade School District will be held April 2.

Parents are to register their child in the office of the elementary school between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

A child will be eligible to enroll in kindergarten for the fall of 1975 if he or she is five years old before Dec. 1, 1975. All children born in all months of 1970, except December, 1970 are eligible to attend kindergarten.

Parents must show a birth certificate as evidence of birth date. This certificate must be shown at the time of registration.

Parents having doubts or questions regarding the child's maturity or readiness for school are urged to consult with the superintendent prior to the registration dates. In some cases, it is advisable to wait until the following year to begin kindergarten.

It is not necessary for children to accompany the parent to the school for registration purposes.

Kindergarten fees will not be collected on registration day. The purpose of the registration is to help school authorities plan for the coming year.

Request for phone rate hike disputed

CHICAGO (AP)—A claim of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. that it needs a rate increase is merely a "smokescreen," an attorney for the Cook County state's attorney's office says.

But the giant utility said Tuesday after an Illinois Commerce Commission meeting that "rate relief is needed to maintain reliable telephone service and . . . the company will present solid evidence to prove it."

The hearings are being held by the commission to allow Bell to show why $15 million in profits above the utility's authorized rate of return should not be paid back to customers.

Ellis B. Levin, an assistant state's attorney, attacked Bell's argument that it not only needed to keep the $15 million but needed a rate increase. He said this reasoning is "best exemplified by the old adage that the best defense is a good offense."

Richard K. Mans, another assistant state's attorney declared Bell's argument a "smokescreen" and added that excess profits of the company actually total $52 million.

The commerce commission sets the rates that utilities may charge, based in part on estimated revenue needs, including the amount earmarked for profits.

In December 1973, the commission authorized a Bell rate increase of up to 8.5 per cent. In January, the utility reported that operating revenues rose $157.6 million in 1974, up 11.6 per cent over the figure for 1973. After interest payments, Bell said, net income totaled $202.1 million or 15 per cent over the figure for 1973.

After the ICC ordered hearings, Bell announced a bid for a 14 per cent rate increase and a change in a variety of services, including a raise in pay phone rates to 20 cents for a basic call and a reduction in directory assistance service.

Thomas R. Phillips, attorney for Bell, told the commission in an opening statement that evidence will show the utility's earnings insufficient "in the future to provide revenue in the amount required for a reasonable return on the value of Illinois Bell's property."

The presentation will be made at 8 p.m. and is open to the public.

MOSTLY For MEN by CHUCK FLYNN

"Recipes should be like love; there should be lots to go around!" With that sage remark, Mrs. Lucy M. Wistreich, 10127 S. Seely Ave., Chicago, allows me to share with you her favorite dish for serving sizable dinner groups.

It's called Daube Provencale de Mme. Moliere and is a delightful stew which should be prepared a day in advance in order that the seasonings can fully penetrate and give the desired taste to beef.

Purchase 4 pounds brisket of beef (round steak or stewing beef) and trim off fat. Cut beef into large cubes, about 1½ to 2-inches. In a Dutch oven or other deep, heavy casserole, cook 1 pound bacon until it has rendered its fat. Remove bacon and set aside.

Cook cubes of beef in fat from bacon, a few pieces at a time so that the meat will be browned to a golden color on all sides. Sprinkle beef with salt and pepper to taste. Now add 4 large onions, peeled and quartered. Crumble cooked bacon and add. Separate 2 whole heads of garlic (about 20 cloves), peel, but do not chop, then add.

Season with 1 strip orange peel, diced, 1 bay leaf, and 2 sprigs fresh thyme (or 1 teaspoon dried). Using a dry red wine such as a good Burgundy, add until all contents in Dutch oven are covered. Adjust seasoning with salt and pepper. Cover tightly and simmer over low heat until the meat is tender. Let the dish cool, then refrigerate. When cool, skim fat from the surface.

Reheat to boiling point before serving with a big dish of noodles. Easily enough for 8 to 10 hungry people.

Oh, and about the amount of garlic, here is a quote from an old French cookbook. "Garlic, says an old wives' tale, wards off disease. Be assured that the slow cooking of this French stew—with its 20 or so cloves of garlic—will neutralize the garlic so that it won't ward off people, too."

Should you not use all the stew in one sitting, it can be reheated several times to good advantage, improving steadily in flavor.

4-H delegate to Finland chosen

Mary Lahman of Franklin Grove will represent Lee County as the International Foreign Youth Exchange (IFYE) delegate to Finland this year.

She will live with her Finnish family for two months this summer, learning how people from other countries live and how their way of life differs from ours.

This was announced at the March meeting of the Lee County 4-H Federation held on St. Patrick's Day at the 4-H Center.

Reports on the successful winter dance, skiing at Plum Tree, and the recent District Junior Leaders' Retreat held at Shimer College were presented.

Plans for a lock-in at the 4-H Center were discussed, along with fair program ideas.

The Federation voted to hold an awards workshop on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Loveland Building in Dixon.

Also planned was a clothing carnival, to be held April 19 from 1 to 4 p.m. at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Amboy.

The need for more funds for the Citizenship Shortcourse, held in Washington, D.C. this June, was discussed.

More participants in the project and activity demonstration contest are needed, and it was stressed that entries should be sent in soon to the Extension office in Amboy.

The contest will be held as a part of the federation's regular meeting on April 21 at the 4-H Center.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY To Margaret Lambert, today.

Cold weather could restore grain reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — If farmers get good planting weather this spring and in the following six months when crops are growing, the nation's skimpy grain reserves could be rebuilt dramatically, according to Agriculture Department experts.

A survey of farmers March 1 showed that they intend to plant 75.3 million acres of corn for harvest this year, the department said Monday.

Although the acreage figure was down 3.2 per cent from 1974 plantings, it still would be the second-largest in the last 15 years and 5 per cent more than farmers planted in 1973 when they harvested a record crop of nearly 5.65 billion bushels.

In 1974, despite a big jump in acreage, poor weather reduced the corn crop sharply from the 6.7 billion bushels projected by USDA a year ago to less than 4.7 billion bushels actually harvested.

In a preliminary planting report two months ago farmers indicated they would trim the 1975 corn acreage only 0.4 per cent from last year and would boost soybean plantings 8 per cent from 1974.

But, as the March figures showed, farmers now say they will reduce 1974-75 corn plantings a little more sharply and that they will hold soybeans to 56.6 million acres, an increase of 6 per cent.

Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said the new crop figures represented "modest and sensible adjustments" on the part of farmers and should not in any way be considered a cause for alarm.

Given normal weather, Paarlberg said, farmers will produce more than enough grain to meet U.S. needs next year.

The report Monday did not include 1975 crop production estimates, but USDA was scheduled to release soon an analysis intended to show how this year's crops might stack up in terms of supply and demand through 1975-76.

One reason for USDA optimism is that the intended acreage for the four livestock feed grains — corn, sorghum, oats and barley — was shown at 122.5 million planted in 1974.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's target price for corn grown last year was $1.38 per bushel, meaning that if the cash market price during the first five months of the 1974 season was more than that, no government payments to farmers would be made. The Agriculture Department made it official Monday. The average farm price of corn was $3.22 per bushel during the five-month period which began last Oct. 1 and ran through February. Thus, no government target price payments will be made on 1974 corn.

Under the formula, if the five-month average market price falls below the target level, then government payments are supposed to make up the difference.

Hearst link named in auto embezzlement warrant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sports radical Jack Scott, linked in published reports to the Patricia Hearst case, is named in an auto embezzlement warrant by Burlingame police, the San Francisco Chronicle said today.

The Chronicle said the car Scott rented Feb. 27 was supposed to be returned March 1, the day of an aborted jailbreak in Oakland by alleged Symphonese Liberation Army members Russell Little and Joseph Remiro.

The paper quoted an unidentified Alameda County official it said was close to the case as saying the Little-Remiro escape attempt was planned and that a "getaway car was known to have been nearby."

The FBI and the Alameda County official would not say if Scott's rented car was under investigation as the possible Little-Remiro getaway car, the Chronicle said.

When the car was not returned March 1, Jay Edwards, manager of Trans Rent-a-Car, went to the Burlingame police department and signed an auto embezzlement complaint against Scott. The Chronicle said the warrant was still being held by police although the car was recovered March 11.

The newspaper said investigators were puzzled because the car was gone for 13 days but had been driven only 27 miles — the distance from Burlingame to Oakland. The car was found in an Oakland parking lot after a woman identifying herself as Scott's wife called Edwards and told him where it was.

"He's been sick and couldn't return the car," Edwards quoted her as saying. He said she asked him to send the bill to an Oregon address.

Scott and his wife, Micki, have been linked to a house in Pennsylvania where Miss Hearst and SLA comrades Bill and Emily Harris are believed to have stayed last summer. The FBI said fugitive Berkeley radical Wendy Yoshimura also may have stayed at the house.

Charles Bates, the FBI agent in charge of the Hearst case, said agents wanted to talk to the 33-year-old Scott but that they had not obtained a warrant for his arrest. Bates said if FBI agents found Scott and he did not want to cooperate, that he could simply walk away.

Bates said he had "no indication of a hookup" between the remnants of the SLA and the Weather Underground. But the Chronicle said sources close to the investigation said the Weather radicals are believed to have put Miss Hearst and the Harrises in touch with protectors who kept them safe for almost a year.

The terrorist SLA kidnaped Miss Hearst on Feb. 4, 1974. She later said she had joined her abductors and she renounced her father, Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner.

Six SLA members were killed in a May 16, 1974, shootout with Los Angeles police, but Miss Hearst and the Harrises were not involved. They are being sought by the FBI on a variety of charges, including kidnaping and bank robbery.

Little and Remiro are charged in the assassination of Oakland School Supt. Marcus Foster. The SLA claimed responsibility for the attack. New charges were filed against Little and Remiro as a result of their March 1 escape attempt in which two guards were seriously injured.

Dr. No-No's helpful hints on how to save natural gas & money:

"Ah! Here's a beautiful no-no, friends. Obstructing a register like this means you don't get enough circulation in this room. And you get too much air flow in other rooms. And that wastes gas and money. Tch, tch, tch."

If you have a room that's hard to heat, check to see if a register is blocked before you turn up the thermostat. Blocking air outlets or inlets can throw a forced air system out of balance, reducing its efficiency. Keep those vents clear. You'll help keep gas supplies up, and your gas bill down.

"Know your no-nos, friends. You'll save gas and money. And that's a yes-yes."

The Man Behind The Badge...

Get to know the man behind the badge in your neighborhood and you'll probably find that he's a lot like you. He's a husband, a father, a taxpayer and a fellow human being who shares most of your concerns, dreams and ambitions. He's also a man with a tough job. He's a cop. He's working for all of us. Protecting us and our loved ones. Protecting our property and enforcing our laws and helping to assure us of living in a safe neighborhood, a wholesome and strong community we can be proud of. But to be truly effective, he needs our help. Our cooperation and our friendship.

In years past, police walked their "beats", got to know their fellow citizens, and in many cases, built lasting and important friendships. Times changed and the world of computers and high-speed radio patrol cars interrupted the direct personal contact we had with our police officers. But times are changing again. All across the nation, policemen are beginning to get back into the community. People are responding. A friendly cooperation is developing, lowering crime and building better and safer neighborhoods. People are learning about the man behind the badge and finding that he is truly one of us.

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE
Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:
• defects in material or workmanship
• normal road hazard failure
• premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining)
Montgomery Ward will:
1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage: replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage: replace it for a pro-rata charge based on mileage used.
Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.
For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.
Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.
Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

WHAT A BUYERS MARKET THIS IS!

In all probability, we've now hit bottom on the prices of many of the things you want to buy. Consider some of the facts:

1. Right now, product inventories in most categories are extremely high. In many instances this is causing manufacturers and dealers to lower prices considerably. Automobile dealers today, for example, have record-high stocks of new cars and trucks. So they're ready to "deal" like never before.

2. Trade-in values are way up. In the automobile business, trade-in allowances on used vehicles are at record highs. So you can save even more on new cars and trucks.

3. Inflation is slowing down, but it will still add dollars to automobiles and any major items you decide to buy in the future rather than now.

DATSUN: THE ONE REBATE THAT GOES ON AND ON.

The savings you pocket every day on the 39 mpg you get.

Our Datsun B-210 gets 39 mpg on the highway, 27 in town. (Latest official EPA tests.) No new car sold in America gets better highway mileage! That's an average of 32 mpg for combined highway and city driving. To drive 15,000 miles a year costs $281, at 60 cents per gallon. If your car averages, say, 14 mpg, to drive 15,000 miles costs $643. Datsun saves or "rebates" $362 the first year alone. Or $1,448 in just 4 years. That's the Datsun "rebate" that goes on and on!
